Lineage.

amillart in 1666 describes the extinct Comtes de —related to the Champions de Crespigny of Vierville, Fonteneys—as taking their name from their office. an and Thomas de Fonteneys served in the first crusade, Robert of Urvyle et Moulins in that under St. Louis at es-Mortes (see DE MAGNY'S Memoirs of the Marquisses de eneys, "dit Marmion," a junior existing branch). rd of Urvyle was Vicomte of Vire, a royal domaine castle, in 1220, and another Ricard in 1350. he 13th century the Urvyle branch succeeded to eneys le Marmion, but Bertrand le Champyon deprived of his office and of Urvyle and Fonteneys CHARLES VI., in favour of Robert Schottisbroke, the original tenure, viz., attendance on summons in armour with kindred, etc., at the feast of St. George, to ent to the king at Cäen a flag with the arms of St. ge for ever (Latin deed dated Falaise, 1 Jan. 1418). and swore fealty to the Duke of Brittany in 1427 for states of Cambis and Belleeze, and retained his title of mte of Vire. Of this family, Ricard, Guillaume, and ul proved nobility in 1334, Jean in 1470, others in 1501, , 1635, 1640, and Robert was patron of St. Barberie at end of the 16th century (Laroche, MSS.). On 7 Oct. , Jaques, son of Pierre, Vicomte de Vire of Cambis, by wife, Madelaine de Launay, proved descent from Ricard vyle, Vicomte of Vire in 1220, and by his wife, Marie, of Dudley-Loftus Davies, M.P., had a son, Jaques-us, whose only surviving child, Ellise, m. Andreas, dson of Archdeacon Fras. Oläusv. Mollerus, of mily ennobled in 1440 and again by CHARLES V. and NRY VIII., both German and English grants attesting its great antiquity. Ellise's son and grandsons, field ers of cavalry and infantry, served at Waterloo, Inker-n, &c. Lieut.-Col. J. Olaus le Champion Moller (formerly llerus), now represents the last owners of Fonteneys the female line; the male representative of the Mar-ns of Urvyle et Fonteneys le Marmion being Sir C. Champion de Crespigny.

GUILLEACME, Baron d'Urvyle, in 1181 assisted his near ative, Lord Marmion of Tamworth Scrivelsby, and nteneys in endowing the Abbey of St Barberie, founded Robert, Lord Marmion, in 1140. He left three sons, Robert of Moulins, who gave lands to St. Barberie in 1223, and joined St. Louis at Aigues Mortes as a crusader.

. Ricard, 2nd son, was Vicomte of Vire in 1220. His son, Jean of Urvyle et Bretvyle was living in 1289. He had four sons,

1 Robert Bertrand, of Urvyle, Bretvyle, and Fonteneys, founded the fair of St. Hermies at Fonteneys le Marmion in 1333, and his son, Roland, m. to Ellene de Fonteneys, mounted guard at St. Arnoul in Iveline, 26 Nov. 1357. The son of Roland, viz., Jean, was father of Bertrand, last Vicomte de Fonteneys, who was deprived of Fonteneys le Marmion and Urvyle on 1 Jan. 1418. Male line becoming extinct in the 18th century on death of Jaques Loftus le Champion.
2 Olivier, d. s. p.
3 Maheas.
4 Roger, supposed to be an ancestor of Le Champion d'Alenson, and of the Marquis de Fonteneys, of Varnhanu.

MAHEAS CHAMPION, Chevalier, of Lower Normandy, m. Madlle. Busnel, dau and heir of Jean Busnel, Escuier, Sieur and Baron de Frenes; and dying in 1350, left a son, RICHARD CHAMPION, Viscompte de Vire, in consequence of his father having obtained the Domaine du Roi. By his wife, who was dau. of Hector Mensaut, Escuier, Sieur de Lensentière, he had two sons.

I. JEAN, who took up his residence in Brittany, and from whom derived Les Sieurs de Chartres de Cicé, and other CHAMPIONS in that province, as well as CHAMPION DE CICE, ci-devant archbishop of Aix, living in 1830, who came over to England with other royalists, in the suite of the Duc de Bourbon, and was hospitably received by the late Sir William Champion de Crespigny, Bart., at Champion Lodge.
II. MICHAEL.

The 2nd son,

MICHAEL CHAMPION, Escuier, died in Normandy, leaving, by Jeanne his wife, dau. of Le Sieur de la Rivière, four sons, of whom the eldest,

HERBERT CHAMPION, Escuier, Sieur de la Fleurière, in the parish of St. Quentin, near Tinchebrais, Lower Normandy, which estate he purchased of Jean l'Anglois, 4 May, 1463, m. Jeanne, dau. of Jean Abot, Escuier, Sieur de Melley, and had three sons (Antoine, Martin, and Jean, a priest) and one dau., Madelaine, wife of Guillaume Vaillant Escuier. The eldest son.

RICHARD CHAMPION, Sieur de la Fleurière, created Baron and Viscomte de Hurien. He m. 6 Dec. 1617, Marguerite, dau. of Adrian Richard, Escuier, Sieur de Crespigny, near Aunay, Lower Normandy, and by her (who d. at St. Lo, 23 Jan. 1682, age 90) had a son, CLAUDE. Richard Champion (whose services to the king were twice noticed by the Comte de Maulière) sold the estate of Fleurière to Henri du Gué, in 1641, and removed from that place, which had been for nearly two centuries the family residence, to the lands of Crespigny. In Dec. 1617, he was remarried, in the reformed religion, at Condé, and on the 6 June following, he took an oath of fealty to the king that he would not adhere to the Rochellois Protestants. He was s. at his decease by his son, CLAUDE CHAMPION DE CRESPIGNY, Escuier, Sieur de Crespigny, in the parish of Vierville, b. at Crespigny, and baptized in the reformed religion, at Condé, 17 May, 1620, was an officer of high rank in the French service, but at the revocation of the Edict of Nantes he quitted France, with the whole of his family, and came to England, where he was received by the Pierpoints, being allied by marriage to that noble house. House of La Warr.

The first of this family upon record,

JOHN LA WARR, had a ratification, in the 8th of JOHN, of a grant which that king had made, prior to his coming to the throne, of the lordship of Bristolton (a member of the honour of Gloucester), to hold by the service of half a knight's fee. He d. in six years afterwards, and was s. by his son,

JORDAN LA WARR, who then paid two hundred pounds for livery of his lands. This feudal lord was in arms against King JOHN, but on paying a fine, with two palfreys, was re-admitted into favour. Nevertheless, we find him again fighting under the baronial standard, and again making his peace after the battle of Evesham. He was s. by

JOHN LA WARR, who was sheriff of Herefordshire in the 3rd EDWARD I., and was s. by

ROGER LA WARR, who in the reigns of EDWARD I. and EDWARD II., having had military summonses to attend the king in the wars of France, and being actively engaged in those as well as the Scottish wars, was summoned to parliament, as a BARON, from 6 Feb. 1299, to 16 June, 1311. His lordship m. Clarice, dau. and co-heir of John de Tregoz, Baron Tregoz; and dying in 1329, was s. by his son, JOHN LA WARR, 2nd baron, summoned to parliament from 26 Aug. 1307, to 26 Feb. 1347. This nobleman, in the 25 EDWARD I., his father still living, was in the expedition then made into Flanders, and the next year he was in the wars of Scotland. In the 29th of the same reign, on the decease of his mother, Clarice, he inherited a moiety of the property of his grandfather, Lord Tregoz (to which barony he was co-heir, and for an account of which see BURKE'S Dormant and Extinct Peerage); viz., Ewyas-Harold, co. Hereford; Alyngton, Wilts; and other lands in the cos. of Somerset, Salop, and Northampton. After this, during the remainder of the reign of EDWARD I., he was constantly engaged in the wars of Scotland, and was made a knight of the Bath. In the 14th EDWARD III., his lordship was in the great sea-fight off Sluy; in the 16th, he was in the expedition to France, assisting at the siege of Nantes; and in the 20th, he was in the van of the BLACK PRINCE at the glorious battle of CRECY. His lordship m. Joan, sister and heir of Thomas de Gresley, Baron Gresley, whose chief seat was at Manchester, co. DENNY.

DENNY, SIR ROBERT-ARTHUR, Bart., of Tralee, co. Kerry, late Lt. 22nd Regt.; b. 23 July, 1838, s. his uncle as 5th bart., 1889; m. 1872, Jane, dau. of J. Kirton, Esq.

Lineage.

SIR EDMOND DENNY, Knt., one of the Barons of the court of Exchequer in England in the beginning of the 16th century, was great-grandson of John Denny, Esq., who fell in the French wars of HENRY V., and was interred at St. Denys. The judge d. in 1520, and there is a monument to his memory in the church of St. Bennett, Paul's Wharf, London. By his will he directed his body to be laid in that church, and that twenty trentals of masses should be said for his soul, and the souls of his wives deceased, and those of William and James, his father and mother. The 4th son of this learned judge,

SIR ANTHONY DENNY, Knt., b. in 1500, was groom of the stole in 1518, and one of the privy council to HEN. VIII. Such a gentleman was the only individual amongst the courtiers who dared to apprize his royal master of his approaching dissolution. HENRY had, however, so high an esteem for Sir Anthony, that he could perform that sad office with impunity, and the monarch presented him with a magnificent pair of knives worked in pearls, which still remain in the possession of the family. Sir Anthony was appointed one of the King's executors and one of the guardians of EDWARD VI. He m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Philip Champernoune, of Modbury. Their grandson (the son of the eldest son, Sir Henry),

SIR EDWARD DENNY, Knt., was summoned to parliament, in 1604, as Baron Denny, and created, in 1626, EARL OF NORWICH. The latter dignity became extinct at his decease, without male issue, in 1630, while the barony devolved upon his only dau. and heir, Honoria, wife of James, Earl of Carlisle, at the decease of whose son, James Hay, Earl of Carlisle, in 1660, without issue, it expired.

SIR EDWARD DENNY, Knt.-Banneret (uncle to the deceased Earl of Norwich, and son of the Right Hon. Sir Anthony Denny, HENRY VIII.'s privy-councillor), m. Margaret, dau. of Peter Edgecumbe, Esq., M.P. for Cornwall, by Margaret his wife, dau. of Sir Andrew Luttrell, of Dunster, and had, with other issue,

I. EDWARD (Sir), his heir.

II. Anthony, of Bishop's Stortford, Herts, who m. Mary, dau. of Thomas Aldrich, Esq. of Swadeston, Norfolk; and d. about 1662, leaving a son,

EDWARD, of Bishop's Stortford, who d. 14 March, 1720, in his 90th year, leaving, by Cordelia his wife, dau. of Adam Hill, Esq. of Spaldwick, Hunts, two daus., his co-heirs, ELIZABETH DENNY.

ANNE DENNY, who m. John Sandford, Esq.; and d. 10 Sept. 1747, leaving a dau. and co-heir, CORDELIA SANDFORD, who m. JOHN BROME, Esq.

Sir Edward Denny was buried at Waltham. The eldest son,

SIR EDWARD DENNY, Knt., a military person, went over to Ireland, in the reign of ELIZABETH, as an undertaker in the plantation of Munster, and settled at Tralee, co. Kerry. He m. Elizabeth, sister of Sir Anthony Forest, Knt., and by her (who m. 2ndly, 26 May, 1639, Sir Thomas Harris, Knt.) had a son,

His lordship d. 29 April, 1893.

Yarburgh of Heslington.

The family of Yarburgh is one of great antiquity, and can trace an authenticated male succession from the time of the Norman Conquest. At that period Eustachius de Yarburgh was Lord of Yarburgh, co. Lincoln, which manor, together with the patronage of the Living, still remains vested in his representative, the present Lord Deramore. For many successive centuries the Yarburghs were settled in various parts of Lincolnshire, but more than two hundred years ago they removed their residence to Snaith Hall, West Riding, co. York, and subsequently, Snaith Hall being destroyed, to Heslington Hall, near York, an ancient mansion, built in the reign of Elizabeth, and acquired in marriage with a co-heiress of the Hesketh of Heslington, a junior branch of the Lancashire Hesketh.

Edmund Yarburgh, Esq. of Balne Hall, co. York (son of Francis Yarburgh, Serjeant-at-Law, and the lineal descendant of Eustachius de Yarburgh, Lord of Yarburgh, temp. CONQUESTORIS), was treasurer of lame soldiers in the West Riding of that county, with Sir G. Cutler, of Stainburgh. He m. Sarah, dau. and co-heiress of Thomas Wormeley, Esq. of Cusworth and Hatfield, co. York (by Thomasine his wife, dau. and heiress of Nicholas Waller, Esq.), and had issue,

Lineage.

ADAM DE ALDITHLEY attended Duke WILLIAM to England, and was accompanied from Alditnley, in Normandy, by his sons, Lydulph and Adam de Aldithley, and had large possessions conferred upon him by the CONQUEROR.

LYDULPH, eldest son, was father of Adam de Aldithley, which Adam was possessed, in right of his wife, Mabella, dau. and heir of Henry Stanley de Stoneley, of the manor of Stoneley and Balterley, co. Stafford (Dugdale's Baronage), and was ancestor of the Barons Audley, of Healey Castle, co. Stafford; and

ADAM DE ALDITHLEY, second son, was father of WILLIAM DE ALDITHLEY, to whom Thomas Stanley, of Stafford, kinsman of Henry Stanley, of Stoneley, gave his only dau. and heir, Joan, and with her, as a marriage portion, the manor of Thalk, co. Stafford: he having exchanged Thalk for Stoneley, and half the manor of Balterley, with his cousin Adam, made choice of Stoneley for his seat, and in honour of his lady, and the great antiquity of her family (of noble Saxon descent), who flourished in England many years before the Conquest, assumed the surname of STANLEY, and became the immediate founder of the Stanleys. This William was s. by his son and heir,

William Stanley de Stoneley, who was s. by his son,

Sir William Stanley, who had two sons, John Stanley, who d. s. p.; and

Sir Adam Stanley, 2nd son, but heir, who was s. by his son and heir,

Sir William Stanley, who m. Joan, eldest dau. and co-heir of Sir Philip de Bamvile (by Agnes, his wife, one of the daus. and co-heirs of Alexander de Stourton, by his wife, Amabilla, dau, and heir of Ranulph de Silvester, son of Allan Silvester, Lord of Stourton), by which alliance he became possessed of the manor and bailiwick of Wyrall Forest, and thereupon assumed the armorial bearings since used by his descendants, viz., arg. on a bend, az., three stags' heads, or, in place of those borne by his ancestors. He had issue, beside one dau., two sons, John and Adam. The elder son,

John Stanley, Lord of Stourton, &c., m. Mabella, dau. of Sir James Hausket, Knt. of Stourton Parva, by whom he had,

William (Sir), his heir.

John of Greswithin, co. Cumberland, M.P. for Carlisle, 20 Edw. III., from whom descends Edward Stanley, Esq. of Ponsonby Hall, M.P. for Cumberland.

The eldest son,

Sir William Stanley, Lord of Stourton, &c, m. Alice, dau. of Hugh Massey, of Timperley, and sister of Sir Hamon Massey, of Dunham Massey, and d. in the 21st Richard II., by whom he had, beside one dau., three sons,

I. William (Sir), eldest son, who s. his father, and was also of Hooton, in Cheshire, by right of his wife, Margery, dau. and heir of William de Hooton. From this Sir William descended the Baronets Stanley, afterwards Errington, of Hooton.
II. John (Sir), K.G., of whom presently.
III. Henry.

The 2nd son,

Sir John Stanley, K.G., m. Isabel, dau. and heir of Sir Thomas Lathom, Knt., of Lathom and Knowsley, co. Lancaster (descended from Robert-Fitz-Henry, whose son, Robert, took the name of Lathom, from his place of residence), and thus acquired those estates. In 1385, Sir John Stanley was lord-deputy of Ireland, and had a grant of the manor of Blake Castle, in that kingdom. In 1405, he had a commission, in conjunction with Roger Leke, to seize on the city of York and its liberties, and also upon the Isle of Man, on the forfeiture of Henry Percy, Earl of Northumberland; and in the 7th Henry IV., being then treasurer of the household to the king, obtained licence to fortify a house at Liverpool, which he had newly built, with embattled walls. In the same year, having taken possession of the Isle of Man, he obtained a grant in fee of the said isle, castle, and pile, anciently called Holm Town, and all the isles adjacent, as also all the regalities, franchises, &c., to be holden of the said king, his heirs, and successors, by homage, and the service of two falcons, payable on the days of their coronation. On the accession of Henry V., he was made a knight of the Garter, and constituted lord-lieut. of Ireland for six years, in which government he d. in 1414, having had (beside two daus.) four sons,

I. John (Sir), of whom presently.
II. Henry.
III. Thomas (Sir), of Elford, co. Stafford, jure uxoris whence come the Stanleys of Elford, Pipe, &c.
IV. Ralph (Sir).

The eldest son and heir,

Sir John Stanley, knight of the shire, 2 Henry V., constable of Carnarvon, and justice of Chester, 5 Henry VI. and sheriff of Anglesey, m. Isabel (or Elizabeth), dau. of Sir Robert, and sister and heir of Sir William Harrington, Knt. of Hornby, co. Lancaster, and had, beside two daus.,

Thomas (Sir), 1st Baron Stanley of whom presently.
Richard, } successively archdeacons of Chester.
Edward, }

The eldest son and heir,

Sir Thomas Stanley, lord-lieutenant of Ireland for six years, (1432,) comptroller of the household and chamberlain to Henry VI.; K.G., 1456; knight of the shire; summoned as Baron Stanley, 20 Jan. 1456 (34th Henry VI.). His lordship m. Jean, dau. and co heir of Sir Robert Goushill, Knt. of Heveringham, co. Notts, by Elizabeth his wife, (widow of Thomas Mowbray, Duke of Norfolk, and dau. and co-heir of Richard Fitzalan, Earl of Arundel, by Elizabeth, his wife, dau. of William Bohun, Earl of Northampton, son of Humphrey de Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Essex, by his wife, the Princess Elizabeth Plantagenet, dau. of King Edward I.,) by whom he had, beside three daus.,

Thomas, his successor.

William (Sir), of Holt, who was beheaded as a participator in the conspiracy for placing Perkin Warbeck upon the throne. Sir William was the richest subject in the kingdom, having no less than 40,000 marks in ready money, and £3,000 year; to which circumstance considering the rapacious position of Henry VII., may be attributed his destruct more than to his political principles.

John (Sir), who m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir of Sir Thor Weever, Knt. of Weever, co. Chester, and by her acqui that estate. From this Sir John Stanley descends L Stanley of Alderley.

James, Archdeacon of Carlisle.

His lordship d. in 1458-9, and was s. by his eldest son,

Thomas, 2nd Lord Stanley, K.G.; summoned to parliam from 38th of Henry VI. to 1st of Richard III. This no man m. 1st, Eleanor, dau. of Richard Nevil, Earl of Salisb and sister of Richard Nevil (The King-Maker), the stout E of Warwick, by whom he had issue,

I. George, Lord Strange, K.G., who m. Joan, dau. and heir John, Lord Strange, of Knockyn, co-heir of the Barony Mohun, by Jacquetta, his wife, dan. and co-heir of Rich Wydvile, Earl Rivers, and Jacqueline, his wife, widow John Plantagenet, Duke of Bedford, and was summoned parliament as Lord Strange, in the 22nd of Edward I His lordship d. 5 Dec. 1497 (his father still living), and l (with two daus.),

Sir Thomas d. May, 1653, and was s. by his elder son,

Sir Edward Stanley, who m. in 1664, Elizabeth, dau. of Thomas Bosville, Esq. of Warmsworth, co York; and dying in 1671, left, with a dau., Barbara, wife of the the Rev. Zachary Taylor, an only son.

Sir Thomas Stanley, 4th baronet. This gentleman m. 1st, 16 Aug. 1688, Elizabeth, only dau. and heir of Thomas Patten, Esq. of Preston, M.P., by whom he had issue, Edward, his successor, as 5th baronet, who s. as 11th Earl of Derby.

John, in holy orders, D.D., rector of Liverpool, Bury, and Winwick; who m. 1st, Alice, dau. of Edward Warren, Esq.; and 2ndly, Miss Sarah Earle, of Liverpool, but d. s. p. in 1781.

Sir Thomas m. 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Thomas Holcroft, Esq. of Holcroft, co. Lancaster, and relict of Sir Richard Standish, Bart., but had no other issue. He d. 7 May, 1714.

. Edward (Sir), of Hornby Castle, Lancashire. This gallant person commanded the rear of the English army at Flodden Field, 9 Sept. 1513; and forcing the Scots, by the power of his archers, to descend the hill, thus broke their line, and insured the triumph of the English arms, for which good service, Henry VIII., keeping his Whitsuntide at Eltham the next ensuing year, 1514, commanded that Sir Edward Stanley, for those valiant acts against the Scots, where he won the hill, and vanquished all that opposed him, as also that his ancestors bore the eagle in their crest, should be there proclaimed Lord of Monteagle, and he had subsequently summons to parliament in that dignity. He was also elected a knight of the Garter. His lordship's grandson, William Stanley, 3rd Lord of Monteagle, d. in 1581, leaving by Ellen, his wife, dau. of Sir Thomas Preston, of Preston Patrick and Levens, in Westmorland, an only dau., Elizabeth, who became his heir, and marrying Edward Parker, Lord Morley, conveyed the Barony of Monteagle into that family. The dignity is now in ABEYANCE. (See Burke's Extinct Peerage.)

III. James, in holy orders, Bishop of Ely.

Lord Stanley m. 2ndly, Margaret, dau. and heir of John, Duke of Somerset, widow of Edmund Tudor, Earl of Richmond, and mother of Henry, Earl of Richmond. How far his lordship contributed to the victory of Bosworth is recorded in history: and his placing the crown of Richard upon the head of the victorious Richmond in the field, is also a matter of historic record. In consideration of those eminent services, the new monarch advanced Lord Stanley, 27 Oct. 1485, to the dignity of Earl of Derby, and constituted him one of the commissioners for executing the office of lord-high-steward of England on the day of his coronation. His lordship, in the March following, had a grant of the great office of Constable of England for life. He had no children by his second marriage; and dying 29 July, 1504, was s. by his grandson,

Thomas, 2nd earl; who m. 1507, Anne, dau. of Edward, Lord Hastings of Hungerford, and was s. at his decease, 23 May, 1521 (when it appears he bore the titles of Earl of Derby, Viscount Kynton, Lord Stanley and Strange, Lord of Knokyn, Mohun, Basset, Burnal, and Lacy, Lord of Man and the Isles), by his son,

Edward, 3rd earl, K.G., lord-high-steward at the coronation of Queen Mary, and chamberlain of Chester in the reign of Elizabeth; so celebrated for magnificence and liberality, that Camden says, "that with Edward, Earl of Derby's death, the glory of hospitality seemed to fall asleep." His lordship m. 1st, 21 Feb. 1530, Dorothy, dau. of Thomas, 2nd Duke of Norfolk; 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Ellis Barlow, of Barlow, co. Lancaster; 3rdly, Mary, dau. of Sir George Cotton, of Combermere, co. Chester. He d. 24 Oct. 1572, and was s. by his eldest* son (by his 1st wife),

Henry, 4th earl, K.G, lord lieut. of cos. Lancaster and Chester; one of the peers who sat upon the trial of Mary, Queen of Scots. His lordship m. 7 Feb. 1555, Margaret, only child of Henry Clifford, Earl of Cumberland (by his 1st wife, Alianore, dau. and co-heir of Charles Brandon, Duke of Suffolk, and Mary, Dowager Queen of France, the sister of Henry VIII.), and dying in 1593, was s. by his eldest son, Ferdinando, 5th earl. This nobleman having been tampered with by one Hesketh, to assume the title of king in right of his grandmother, and rejecting the proposition indignantly, is supposed to have been poisoned in consequence by the conspirators. His lordship m. Alice, dau. of Sir John Spencer of Althorp, and had three daus, his co-heirs, viz.,

Anne, m. 1st, to Grey, 5th Lord Chandos; and 2ndly, to Mervyn, Earl of Castlehaven.

Frances, m. to John, Earl of Bridgewater.

Elizabeth, m. to Henry, 5th Earl of Huntingdon.

His death occurred 16 April, 1594, when the Baronies of Stanley and Strange fell into abeyance amongst his daus., and the earldom devolved upon his brother,

William, 6th earl, K.G. This nobleman bought from his nieces their claims on the Isle of Man. His lordship m. 26 June, 1594, Elizabeth, eldest dau. of Edward Vere, 17th Earl of Oxford, and had, with four daus., two sons, James, his heir; and Robert (Sir), Knt., who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Arthur Gorges, Knt., and had, with a dau., three sons, Charles (Sir), of Chelsea, whose issue became extinct; James, whose sons both d. young; and Ferdinand, who d. in infancy. The earl dying 29 Sept. 1642, was s. by his son, James, 7th earl, K.G., b. 31 Jan. 1607; who had been summoned to parliament, in 1627, as Baron Strange, under an impression that such a barony was enjoyed by his father; that, however, not being the case, the summons amounted to the creation of a new peerage, which eventually devolved upon the ducal house of Atholl. His lordship, distinguished by his devoted and heroic attachment to royalty during the civil wars fell into the hands of the enemy, after the battle of Worcester, and suffered decapitation, at Bolton, 15 Oct. 1651. He m. 26 June, 1626, Charlotte, dau. of Claude de la Trémouille, Duke of Thouars (this high-born and high-minded lady became famous for her gallant defence of Latham House, in 1644, when

III. Gladys, b. 21 March, 1887.

Lineage.

The family of SAUMAREZ, originally DE SAUSMAREZ, is of Norman extraction, and of great antiquity in the island of Guernsey. Their remote ancestor received from Henry, 10th Duke of Normandy (HENRY II. of England) the fief of Jerbourg, and was appointed hereditary captain (or chatelain) of the castle of that name, which was situated within the limits of the fief. In the twenty-seventh year of EDWARD I., at a court of chief pleas held at Guernsey in the presence of the judges, Matthew de Sausmarez did homage for this fief, and in the fourth of EDWARD III. the grant was renewed and confirmed to his son, whose descendant,

MATTHEW DE SAUSMAUREZ, of Guernsey, b. 4 June, 1685, was col. of militia in the island of Guernsey. He m. Anne, dau. of John Durell, lt. bailiff of the island of Jersey, and had issue,

I. John (who alone retained the original surname of DE SAUSMAREZ, which is preserved by his descendants to the present day), b. 12 Jan. 1706; d. 4 April, 1773. He was seigneur of the fief Sausmarez, and chatelain of Juburg, and for many years attorney-general of the island of Guernsey; he m. and had, with other issue, Matthew, b. 1749, d. s. p., and Thomas, attorney-general of the island of Guernsey, who d. 1 April, 1837, leaving, with other issue, John-Thomas De Sausmarez, Esq., jurat of the royal court of Guernsey, the present representative of the eldest branch of the family of De Sausmarez and Havilland de Sausmarez, fellow of Pembroke College, Oxford, and rector of St. Peter's, co. Northampton, d. 17 April, 1882.
II. A son, d. an infant.
III. Philip, b. 17 Nov. 1710. He was first lieut. with Commodore Anson in his voyage round the world, and in the expedition to the South Seas, and was made captain of the galleon then captured; he fell gloriously commanding the "Nottingham," 60, when that ship captured the French "Mars," 64, in Lord Hawke's memorable action off Brest, 14 Oct. 1747.
IV. MATTHEW.
V. Thomas, capt. R.N., b 20 April, 1720. He was also with Lord Anson in his expedition, and subsequently when commander of the "Antelope," of 50 guns, captured the "Belliqueux," of 64 guns, in the British Channel. He d. 1764.

Lineage.

The COURTENAYS are one of the most illustrious races amongst the English nobility, and have had a brilliant historian in Gibbon. In the time of HENRY II.

SIR REGINALD DE COURTENAY, m. HAWISE, dau. & granddau. of Robert de Abrincis, and was s. by his son,

ROBERT DE COURTENAY, as feudal Baron of Oakhampton Viscount of Devonshire, and governor of the castle of Exeter This Robert, in 1214, was made governor of Bridgnorth, in Shropshire, and the following year, sheriff of Oxfordshire and governor of the castle of Oxford, when the king (JOHN committed to him the coinage of tin in Devonshire and Cornwall. He m. Mary, youngest dau. of William de Redvers, surnamed VERNON, 6th Earl of Devon; and dying 26 July, 1242, was s. by his elder son,

JOHN DE COURTENAY, as feudal Baron of Oakhampton who m. Isabel, dau. of Hugh de Vere, Earl of Oxford, lord high chamberlain of England; and dying in 1273, was s. by his only son,

HUGH DE COURTENAY, Baron of Oakhampton. This feudal lord m. Eleanor, dau. of Hugh, Lord Le Despencer, and d. 28 Feb. 1291, and was s. by his elder son,

HUGH DE COURTENAY, Baron of Oakhampton. This nobleman having distinguished himself in the Scottish wars of EDWARD I., was one of the three hundred persons of eminence knighted by that monarch at Westminster. In the reign of EDWARD II., he was created a Knight-Baneret; and was fifteen times summoned to especial treaties in parliament, as a baron, within the first eight years of EDWARD III., and twice in the 9th of the same monarch by the name of Hugh de Courtenay, EARL OF DEVONSHIRE being the last earl in order, as having been that year only restored to the dignity, in right of his great-grandmother Mary, dau. of William de Redvers, Earl of Devon. His lordship m. 1292, Agnes, dau. of the Lord St. John of Basing, and was s. at his decease, in 1340, by his eldest son

HUGH DE COURTENAY, 2nd Earl of Devon, b. 1303, who had m. in 1325, Margaret, dau. of Humphrey Bohun, Earl of Hereford and Essex (lord-high-constable of England), and his wife, the Lady Elizabeth Plantagenet, dau. of EDWARD I., by whom (who d. 16 Dec. 1391), he had (with nine daus.) eight sons, viz.,

I. Hugh, Lord Courtenay, commonly called Hugh Courtenay le Fitz, one of the gallant soldiers of the martial reign of EDWARD III., a participator in the glories of Crecy, and a Founder Knight of the Garter. He was summoned to parliament, as BARON COURTENAY, 8 Jan. 1371. His lordship m. 1341, Elizabeth, dau. of Guy Brian, Lord of Tor-Brian, in Devonshire, and sister of the famous Guy, Lord Brian, K.G., standard-bearer to the king at Crecy; and dying in the lifetime of his father, left an only son, Hugh, Lord Courtenay, who m. Matilda, dau. of Thomas Holland, Earl of Kent, by Joan Plantagenet his wife, the celebrated FAIR MAID OF KENT, granddau. of EDWARD I. (and mother, by the Black Prince, of RICHARD II.). Hugh Courtenay d. 20 Feb. 1373-4, a few years after his father, and before his grandfather, leaving no issue. His widow m. Waleran, Count of St. Paul.

II. Thomas, M.P. for Devonshire, d. before his father.

III. EDWARD, of Godlington (who d. also before his father), m. Emeline, dau. and heir of Sir John Dawnay, Knt., and had issue,

1 EDWARD, successor to his grandfather, as 3rd earl.

2 Hugh (Sir), of Haccomb, m. 1st, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Cogan, and widow of Sir Fulk Fitzwarine, but by her had no issue. He m. 2ndly, Philippa, dau. and co-heir of Sir William Arcedekene, and had an only dau.,

Joane, m. 1st, to Nicholas, Lord Carew; and 2ndly, to Sir Robert Vere.

Sir Hugh Courtenay m. 3rdly, Maud, dau. of Sir John Beaumont, of Sherwell, in Dorsetshire, by whom he had (with a dau., Margaret, m. to Sir Theobald Grenvill, Knt.) a son and heir,

Hugh (Sir), of Boconnock, who m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Carminow, of Carminow, and fell at Tewkesbury, leaving two sons and four daus.,

Edward, created in 1485, Earl of Devon.
Walter (Sir), who d. unm.
Maud, m. Sir John Arundell, of Tolverne.
Elizabeth, m. John Trethurffe, Esq.
Isabella, m. William Mohun, Esq. of Hall, Lanteglos, Cornwall.
Florence, m. John Trelawny, Esq.

William, archbishop of Canterbury in 1381; d. in 1396.
John, M.P. for Devonshire, temp. Richard II.
Philip (Sir), of Powderham Castle, of whom hereafter ancestor of the present Earl of Devon.
Peter (Sir), K.G., standard-bearer to Edward III., nstable of Windsor Castle, governor of Calais, and lamberlain to Richard II.; d. unm. 1409.
. Humphry.

h, 2nd Earl, d. 2 May, 1337, and was s. by his grandson, ward, 3rd Earl of Devon, commonly called The Blind
b. circa 1357. This nobleman served to the beginning e reign of Richard II. as a naval officer, under John unt, and Thomas of Woodstock, respectively; and was nted, in the 7th of the same monarch, admiral of all ing's fleet, from the mouth of the Thames westward.
e next year, being then Earl Marshal, his lordship etained to serve the king in his Scottish wars. He m.
l, dau. of Thomas, Lord Camoys; and dying 5 Dec.
was s. by his second but only surviving son,

gh, 4th Earl of Devon, K.B., b. 1389, who m. Anne, of Richard, Lord Talbot, and sister of the renowned of Shrewsbury; and dying 16 June, 1422, was s. by his omas, 5th Earl of Devon, b. 1414. This nobleman comed his military career at the age of sixteen, and was ged for several years in the French wars of Henry VI., whom he sided on the breaking out of the unhappy ict between the houses of York and Lancaster; and the tenays ever after adhered, with desperate fidelity, to Red Rose. In 1448, a dispute regarding precedency between the Earls of Devon and Arundel, which was led by parliament in favour of the latter lord, owing to udal possession of Arundel Castle. The Earl of Devon Feb. 1458, in the Abbey of Abingdon, upon his route ondon, as a mediator, with other noblemen, between ing and the Duke of York. He m. Lady Margaret fort, 2nd dau. of John, 1st Earl of Somerset, and Mars of Dorset, and was s. by his eldest son, omas, 6th Earl of Devon, b. 1432. This nobleman inherit-he political principles, with the honours, of his deceased r, was a strenuous upholder of the Lancastrian in-ts, and falling into the hands of the Yorkists, at Tow-Field, he was beheaded at York, by order of Edward 3 April, 1461. His lordship was subsequently attainted the honours of the house thus became eclipsed; but his brother,

gh Courtenay (7th earl, but for the attainder), find-favour with the new king, had restoration of some of the estates. Engaging, however, in the Lancastrian rel, with the zeal of his predecessors, he was himself nted, 4 May, 1466, before the king and justices at m, and beheaded, with the Lord Hungerford, on the e day.

he greater part of the Courtenay estates having been erred upon Humphrey Stafford, Baron Stafford of hwicke, that nobleman was created Earl of Devon in
; but falling under the axe as a traitor, 17 Aug. fol-ng, the dignity expired.)

on the demise of Hugh Courtenay, his only surviving her,

hn Courtenay, assumed the Earldom of Devon, and Lancastrian interest prevailing in 1470, by the expulsion king Edward, his lordship was restored to the honours possessions of his family by the parliament that reed the crown upon the head of Henry VI. The subse-nt defeat, however, of Richard Nevill, the stout Earl Warwick, at Barnet Field, 14 April, 1471, again placed fortunes of the house of Devon in jeopardy, and the , joining Margaret of Anjou, fell, sword in hand, at kesbury, 14 May following, at the head of Margaret's -guard. Thus the three brothers sealed with their d their bond of fidelity to the house of Lancaster, and h them expired the senior branch of the ancient and illustrious house of Courtenay. The last earl was buried at Tewkesbury, and being attainted, the honours and estates of Devon became again forfeited.

The branch being thus extinguished, we proceed to that founded by

Sir Hugh Courtenay, of Haccomb, brother of Edward, 3rd earl (revert to issue of Hugh, 2nd earl) This gentleman's only son,

Sir Hugh Courtenay, Knt., was of Boconnock, in Cornwall, and M.P. for that shire. He m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Carminow (the last heir male of that ancient family, whose other dau. and co-heir was m. to Sir Thomas Carew, of Mohun's Ottery), and had issue,

I. Edward (Sir), his successor.
II. Walter (Sir), d. unm.
I. Maud, m. Sir John Arundell, of Tolverne.
II. Elizabeth, m. to John Trethurffe, and had a son,

Thomas Trethurffe, who left two daus.,
Elizabeth, m. to John Vivian.
Margaret, m. to Edward Courtenay, Esq. of Larrock.

III. Isabel, m. to William Mohun.
IV. Florence, m. to John Trelawny.

Sir Hugh, faithful to the Red Rose, fell, with his noble kinsman, the Earl of Devon, at Tewkesbury; and his eldest son,

Sir Edward Courtenay, being involved with his brother, in the conspiracy of Henry Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, in favour of Henry, Earl of Richmond, was forced to fly into Brittany upon the failure of the plot and the decapitation of the duke. Participating, subsequently, in the victory of Bosworth, he was elevated to the peerage by Henry VII. (26 Oct. 1485), as Earl of Devon, and he obtained grants, at the same time, of the greater part of the estates, manors, &c., which had belonged to the late Thomas Courtenay, Earl of Devon. His lordship m. Elizabeth, dau. of Sir Philip Courtenay, of Molland, and had an only son, William (Sir), K.B., who m. the Lady Katherine Plantagenet, dau. of Edward IV. In the year 1502, Sir William was arrested, with Lord William de la Pole, Sir James Tyrrell, and Sir John Wyndham, and accused of holding a traitorous correspondence with Edmund de la Pole, Earl of Suffolk, then a refugee at the court of his aunt, Margaret, Duchess of Burgundy; and he was attainted in 1504. Tyrrell and Wyndham were beheaded on Tower-hill while Courtenay was doomed to incarceration during the king's reign.

The earl d. 28 May, 1509, and Henry VIII. ascending the throne in the same year, that monarch immediately released

Sir William Courtenay, and took him into favour; but he died (9 June, 1511) three years afterwards, before he had either letters patent or a formal restoration of the earldom. He was buried, however, "with the honours of an earl," at the especial command of the king. By the Lady Catherine Plantagenet he left an only son,

Henry Courtenay, who having been restored in blood and honours, became 2nd Earl of Devon of the new creation. In 1522, his lordship obtained a grant of Caleland, in Cornwall, and of a "fair mansion," situate in the parish of St. Lawrence Poultry, in the city of London, forfeited by the attainder of Edward Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, and was advanced by letters patent, dated 18 June, 1525, to the dignity of Marquess of Exeter. For some years this nobleman enjoyed the favour of the fickle Henry, but he fell at length a victim to that monarch's jealousy of the house of Pole. He was committed to the Tower with Henry Pole, Lord Montacute, and Sir Edward Nevill, for conspiring to place Reginald Pole, dean of Exeter upon the throne, and was beheaded with Sir Edward Nevill, 9 Jan. 1539. On the subsequent attainder of the marquess all his honours expired, and the king annexed to the Duchy of Cornwall the lands in that county, which thus came to the crown. His lordship m. 1st, Elizabeth Grey, dau. and heir of John, Viscount Lisle, but by that lady had no issue. He m. 2ndly, 25 Oct. 1519, Gertrude, dau. of Wm. Blount, Lord Mountjoy, by whom he left an only surviving child,

Edward Courtenay, who, though but twelve years of age at the death of his father, was committed prisoner to the Tower, and detained there during the remainder of King Henry's reign, and that of Edward VI.; but upon the accession of Queen Mary he was released, and a patent, dated at Richmond, 3 Sept. 1553, was issued, creating him Earl of Devon. On the 10th October following, he was fully restored in blood; but as the attainder of his father was never reversed, he did not succeed to the Earldom of Devon, created in the 1st Henry VII., nor to the earldom created in the 3rd Henry VIII., neither did he to the Marquessate of Exeter. His lordship had some command in suppressing Wyatt's rebellion, and yet was afterwards, with the Princess ELIZABETH, accused of being accessory thereto, and sent with her highness to the Tower. He was subsequently confined in Fotheringay Castle, but released through the interposition of PHILIP of Spain, upon that monarch's marriage with the queen; the Lady ELIZABETH being liberated through the same influence. His lordship after this, obtained the queen's permission to go abroad, and d. at Padua, not without suspicion of poison, 4 Oct. 1566. He d. unm., and his estates reverted to the issue of his great-aunts, and the four daus. of Sir Hugh Courtenay, of Boconnock, and sisters of Edward, 1st earl. At his lordship's decease, the earldom of Devon was considered to have become extinct, and it remained dormant for no less than two hundred and sixty-five years. It was, however, re-established in another branch of the family, as heirs male of the deceased lord (to which we shall now proceed), by the decision of parliament, 15 March, 1831. It is clear, however, that the Courtenays themselves never once previously thought of the earldom's being in existence, or they would not have accepted a baronetcy and a viscounty.

The existing branch of the Courtenays was founded by

SIR PHILIP COURTENAY, of Powderham Castle (refer to issue of Hugh de Courtenay, 2nd of the original Earls of Devon), who received the honour of knighthood from Edward, the Black Prince, with his brothers Hugh and Peter, the day before the battle of Navaret, in Spain, and was constituted in 1333, lord-lieutenant of Ireland for ten years. Sir Philip m. Anne, dau. of Sir Thomas Wake, by whom he left three sons and two daus., and was s. at his decease, in the 7th HENRY IV., by his eldest son,

RICHARD COURTENAY, Lord Bishop of Norwich. This prelate was one of the ambassadors sent by HENRY V. to the King of France, to demand the crown of that kingdom, as his by right of descent, and to denounce war in the event of non-compliance. He d. in 1415, and was s. in his estates by his nephew,

SIR PHILIP COURTENAY, Knt., who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Walter, Lord Hungerford, and acquired by the alliance the manor of Molland Botreaux, in Devonshire. He had issue, beside two daus., seven sons, viz.,

DEVONSHIRE, DUKE OF (Sir Spencer-Compton Cavendish, K.G., P.C., D.C.L., LL.D.), Marquess of Hartington, Earl of Devonshire, Earl of Burlington, Baron Cavendish of Hardwicke, Baron Cavendish of Keighley, lord-lieut. and custos rotulorum, cos. Derby and Waterford, a Lord of the Admiralty 1863, Secretary of State for War 1866, Postmaster-General 1868 to 1871, Chief Secretary for Ireland 1871 to 1874, Secretary of State for India 1880 to 1882, again Secretary of State for War 1882 to 1885, and from 1895, Lord President of the Council, M.P. for North Lancashire 1857 to 1868, for New Radnor 1869 to 1880, for North-East Lancashire 1880 to 1885, and for Rosendale division of that county 1885 to 1891, was Lord Rector of the University of Glasgow 1877 to 1880, hon. col. 3rd batt. Sherwood foresters (Derbyshire regt.), and Chancellor of Cambridge University; b. 23 July, 1833; s. his father as 8th duke 1891; m. 16 Aug. 1892, Countess Louise-Fredericke-Auguste, dau. of the Comte d'Alten, of Hanover, and widow of William, 7th Duke of Manchester, K.P.

Lineage.

The noble family of Cavendish, of which, in the last century, two branches attained dukedoms, laid the foundations of its greatness originally on the share of Abbey lands, obtained, at the dissolution of the monasteries, by Sir William Cavendish, who had been gentleman-usher to Cardinal Wolsey, and d. in 1557; and subsequently, by the abilities and the good fortune of Elizabeth, his widow, who married George, Earl of Shrewsbury, and d. in 1607, aged eighty-seven. (See BURKE'S Reminiscences.) But though thence arose the exalted rank and extensive possessions enjoyed at present by the Cavendishse, be it not supposed that their remote ancestors were obscure. Whether the first of the name who enjoyed the lordship of Cavendish, in Suffolk, was or was not the son of a member of the baronial family of Gernon, whom genealogists have stated to have owned that estate, it is clearly ascertained that

SIR JOHN CAVENDISH, who acquired the lordship of Cavendish-Overhall, by his marriage with Alice, dau. and heiress of John de Odyngseles, was chief-justice of the Court of King's Bench in 1366, 1373, and 1377. In the 4th RICHARD II., his lordship was elected chancellor of the University of Cambridge, and was next year commissioned, with Robert de Hales, treasurer of England, to suppress the insurrection raised in the city of York; in which year the mob, having risen to the number of 50,000, made it a point, particularly in the co. of Suffolk, to plunder and murder the lawyers; and being incensed in a more than ordinary degree against the Chief-Justice Cavendish, his son, John, having killed the notorious Wat Tyler, they seized upon, and dragged him, with Sir John of Cambridge, prior of Bury, into the market-place of that town, and there caused both to be beheaded. By Alice his said wife he had (with a dau.) two sons,

I. Andrew (Sir), Knt., of Cavendish Overhall, M.P. co. Suffolk, 51 EDWARD, sheriff cos. Norfolk and Suffolk, 8 RICHARD II., d. 1396, leaving by Rose, his wife, a son, WILLIAM, of Cavendish Overhall, who conveyed his manor to his cousin, 13 HENRY IV.

II. JOHN, of whom hereafter.

The younger son of the judge,

SIR JOHN CAVENDISH, esquire of the body to King RICHARD II., is said to be the person who actually slew Wat Tyler. "For William Walworth, mayor of London, having arrested him, he furiously struck the mayor with his dagger, but being armed, hurt him not; whereupon, the mayor, drawing his baselard, grievously wounded Wat in the neck; in which conflict, an esquire of the king's house, called John Cavendish, drew his sword, and wounded him twice or thrice even unto death. For which service, Cavendish was knighted in Smithfield, and had a grant of £40 per annum from the king." He m. Joan, dau. of Sir William Clopton, Knt., of Clopton, and had three sons,

He d. 1477. His son,

Thomas Cavendish, of Cavendish Overhall, m. 1st, Alice, dau. and co-heir of John Smith, of Podbrook Hall, co. Suffolk, by whom (who d. 12 Nov. 1515) he had two sons,

I. George, of Cavendish Overhall, the faithful attendant of Cardinal Wolsey through all fortunes; so faithful, indeed, that after the death of the Cardinal, King Henry retained him in his own service, especially upon the grounds of his attachment to his late fallen master, d. about 1562, leaving with a younger son, Ralph, a son and heir, William, of Cavendish Overhall, who sold his manor to William Downes, Esq. 1569.

II. William, of whom hereafter.

He made his will 13 April, 15 Henry VIII., appointed his 2nd wife, Agnes, executrix (by whom he had a dau., Mary), and d. 1523. His 2nd son, William Cavendish, was, in 1530, appointed one of the commissioners for visiting and taking the surrenders of divers religious houses, and in that year the prior and convent of Sheen surrendered their monastery to him. He had, subsequently, grants from the crown, received the honour of knighthood, and was appointed treasurer of the chamber to the king; an office which he filled in the ensuing reigns of Edward VI. and Queen Mary, when he was sworn of the privy-council. EDWARD-KENELM, b. 1 Aug. 1894.

Lettice-Theresa, b. 16 April, 1896.

Lineage.

The original surname of this ancient family is said to have been TILTON, assumed from their residence at Tilton, co. Leicester; and the alteration is supposed to have taken place in 1256, when that abode was abandoned for Digby, co. Lincoln.

In nearly two centuries afterwards, A.D. 1434, we find EVERARD DIGBY, Esq., filling the office of high-sheriff of the co. of Rutland, and representing that shire in parliament. He fell at the battle of Towton, in 1440, fighting under the banner of the unfortunate HENRY VI. He m. Jaqueta, dau. and co-heir of Sir John Ellys, of Devonshire, and left (with one dau.) seven sons, of whom the three eldest were,

I. EVERARD (Sir), Lord of Tilton and Drystoke, ancestor of the celebrated SIR KENELM DIGBY, Knt., one of the most faithful adherents of the royal cause in the civil war, and an exile, in consequence, during CROMWELL'S usurpation. This Ornament of England, as he has been styled, wrote several learned books; was a great benefactor to the Bodleian library, by presenting it, in 1633, with a large collection of MSS.; recovered the reputation of his family, and rendered it famous throughout the Christian world. He returned to England in 1661; was appointed one of the council on the first settlement of the Royal Society. and d. at his house in Covent Garden, 11 June, 1665; He m. the renowned beauty, Venetia, dau. and co-heir of Sir Edward Stanley, K.B. of Tonge-Castle, co. SIR ARTHUR CHICHESTER, Knt., 2nd son of Sir John Chi ter, Knt., high-sheriff of Devonshire in 1552 and 1578, and for the same co. in 1553 and 1562, by Gertrude, dau. o William Courtenay, Knt. of Powderham Castle, co. D (see CHICHESTER, Bart. of Raleigh). In 1603, he was s of the privy-council; and in 1604, appointed Lord-De of Ireland, in which year he established two new cir sending the first justices of assize into Connaught, reviving the circuit of Munster, which had been disconti for more than two hundred years, so that the circuits, w had previously been confined to the English pale, the forward included the whole kingdom; and with such that, in a very short time, there were not found in all the counties so many capital offenders as in the six shires o western circuit in England. Sir Arthur, in consideration services, military and civil, obtained considerable gran land in the province of Ulster, and was created Baron Chich of Belfast, in the peerage of Ireland, 23 Feb. 1612. His ship continued in the government of Ireland for ten y successively, and was re-appointed in July, 1613; in which the harp of Ireland was first marshalled with the arm England, and has since continued to be impressed upon coin of the realm. In Nov. 1615, he retired from his high o and was appointed, in 1616, lord-high-treasurer of Ireland. Chichester chiefly resided at Carrickfergus, where he ere in 1618, a magnificent mansion called Joymount. In 1622 went ambassador to the palatinate, and thence to treat peace with the emperor. During his residence at the imp court, being besieged in the city of Mainchina, or Manheim Count Tilly, he remonstrated against the violation of the of nations in besieging an ambassador; to which Tilly repl that he noticed not his being an ambassador; his lord thus answered the messenger:—"Had my master sent me nany hundred men as he hath sent me on fruitless messages, r general should have known that I had been a soldier vell as an ambassador." DOYLE.

DOYLE, SIR EVERARD-HASTINGS, Bart., b. 9 Feb. 1852; s. his father as 3rd bart. 1888.

Lineage.

The sept of Doyle has been settled from an early period in various parts of Leinster. The family before us, originally seated at Arklow, co. Wicklow, extended itself at different times into Wexford, Carlow, and Kilkenny. DENIS DOYLE was, towards the close of the 16th century, proprietor of Girtin and other estates in the co. of Wexford, and d. circa 1625, when his property devolved on his sister, GRACE DOYLE, who d. in 1627, when WILLIAM DOYLE succeeded to her as next of kin and heir-at-law. During the Cromwell times these estates were forfeited. JAMES DOYLE, the son of William, made an unsuccessful effort to recover them, claiming by "an old though dormant title." He obtained, however, a perpetual lease of the estate of Kilconney from the Bagenals, and d. in 1708 at "a great age." He was father of Owen Doyle, who d. s.p., and of

1. Elizabeth-Beatrice, m. 22 June, 1887, Reginald, 3rd Lord Seaton.

Sir Francis by royal licence, 3 Oct. 1870, took the surnames and arms of Eliott and Drake.

Lineage.

This family of Drake was founded by the celebrated

Sir Francis Drake, one of the most eminent of the naval heroes of the reign of Elizabeth. Born near Tavistock, in 1545, Drake attained the height he eventually achieved by his own enterprising spirit and transcendent merit alone. In 1570, he made his first expedition, with two ships, the "Dragon" and the "Swan"; and the next year in the "Swan" alone, wherein he returned safe, if not rich. And having now means sufficient to perform greater matters, he laid before the public the plan of a more important design against his enemies. This he put into execution, 24 March, 1572, on which day he sailed from Plymouth, himself in the "Pascha," of seventy tons burden, and his brother, John Drake, in the "Swan," of twenty-five tons, their whole strength consisting of no more than seventy-three men and boys. With this inconsiderable force, he attacked, on the 22nd July, the town of Nombre de Dios, and took it in a few hours by storm. His next attempt was upon Vera Cruz, which he carried and pillaged. From this successful expedition he came back to England in Aug. 1573. He subsequently served as a volunteer in Ireland, under Walter, Earl of Essex; and upon his return was introduced by Sir Christopher Hatton to Queen Elizabeth, when her majesty immediately took him under her protection; and he was enabled, by her royal favour, to undertake and accomplish, within three years, his celebrated voyage round the world. In 1588, when the Spanish armada menaced the shores of England, Sir Francis Drake was appointed vice-admiral, under Charles, Lord Howard of Effingham, and had the good fortune to capture the great galleon, commanded by Don Pedro de Valdez, the reputed projector of the enterprise, by which himself and his crew divided 55,000 ducats. Sir Francis Drake m. Elizabeth (settlement after marriage dated 25 Aug. 1595), only dau. and heir of Sir George Sydenham, of Combe Sydenham, co. Devon, but had no issue. Lineage.

The BLACKWOODS, represented by the noble house of Dufferin, are of Scotch extraction, and can be traced in the public records of Scotland to a very early period. One branch migrated to France, of which was the celebrated ADAM BLACKWOOD, privy councillor to MARY Queen of Scots (whose marriage with the Dauphin of France he had negotiated), and senator of the Presidial Court of Poitiers. He d. there in 1613, leaving ample proofs of his talents as a Civilian, a Poet, and a Divine; and was there interred with great pomp under a marble monument, inscribed with a long epitaph, styling him "Nobilis Scotus, inclytorum majorum, in Caledoniâ notus." The male line of the French Blackwoods became extinct at the death of SIMON XAVIER DE BLACVOD, Chevalier, Seigneur des Frozes in Poitou, whose eldest daughter and co-heiress, MARIE-Thérèse-Blacvod, m. in 1776, Jean Philippe Bellin de la Bontadière Chevalier, Seigneur des Cotes. A scion of the Fifeshire family (from which Fifeshire family also derived the Poitou branch), was

JOHN BLACKWOOD, Esq. of Bangor, co. Down, b. in Scotland in 1591, who became possessed of considerable landed property in Ireland, which he settled on the marriage of his son. He d. 22 May, 1663, and was interred at Bangor. By Janet Clerke, his wife, he had, with three daus., a son and successor,

His lordship, best known as Lord Cochrane, has left a name high distinction in our naval annals. His career was one brilliant exploit and daring. In 1809, his destruction of enemy's ships in the Basque Roads dealt a crushing blow Napoleon's maritime efforts. In 1818 he served under government of Chili and Peru, which had revolted agai Spain, and his naval assistance mainly contributed to those vinces achieving their independence. His great feats in t war were his capture of Valdivia, and his cutting out the Spar frigate "Esmeralda" from under the fortifications of Callao splendid act of seamanlike skill. Lord Dundonald was af wards employed by the empire of Brazil, and there also completely successful. He was created Marquess of Maranha in Brazil. Lineage.

is is one of the few families of Celtic origin in the Irish ge Its ancestors, Chiefs of the Clan of Hy-Ifearnan, seated at a very early period in a barony of the co. of , which derived its name of Inchiquin from them. They of the same stock as the O'Briens, and descended from AC CAS, son of OLLIOLL OLUM, Monarch of Ireland at the ng of the 3rd century. O'Ferrall's Linea Antiqua gives a led pedigree of the O'Quins of Munster, deducing from sons of DEADHA, viz., CONN MOR, MOROGH, and FLAHERTY, hree families of O'QUIN, O'DEA, and O'ROAN. A very us and interesting letter from THADY QUIN, Esq., of Adare, emp. JAMES II., still in the possession of the Earl of Dun-
, refers to this Celtic descent, and carries up the pedigree ONOGH QUIN, son of James Quin, of Kilmallock, and ew of Dr. John Coyn, or Quin, Bishop of Limerick, who according to Ware, preferred temp. HENRY VIII. to that ut being blind and infirm, resigned 9 April, 1551. Donogh
's grandson,

DUNSANDLE.

DUNSANDLE, AND CLAN CONAL, BARON (James-Frederick-Daly), of Dunsandle, co. Galway, in Ireland, Private Sec. to First Lord of the Treasury (Earl of Iddesleigh), 1885 to 1886; b. 29 Dec. 1849; s. his uncle as 4th baron, 7 Sept. 1894.

Lineage.

The family of DALY, or O'DALY, is of very ancient origin, deducing its descent from Nial Naoigialach (Nial of the nine hostages), monarch of Ireland in the 4th century, who was also common ancestor of the O'NEILS of Tyrone, and O'DONELLS of Tyrconnel, from whom the pedigree of this family is lineally traced in the Heralds' office. Dalagh was 10th in descent from Nial, whence the name Daly, and from him also the O'Donells are sometimes styled by the old Irish annalists, "Siol na Dalagh," or the clan of Daly. Of his descendants, there were several kings of Meath, and from thence a branch removed into Thomond, and afterwards into Connaught.

In 1578, DERMOT O'DALY, of Killimur, co. Galway, obtained from Queen ELIZABETH a grant of the manor or lordship of Larha, in that county, and dying, left issue, two sons, Tiegue, who d. without issue male; and Donogh, who left two sons, I. Dermot, commander of the castle of Clare-Galway, anno 1642; and II. JAMES DALY, who m. Anastasia D'Arcy, grand-dau. of James Riveagh D'Arcy, vice-president of Connaught in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, and direct descendant of Sir John D'Arcy, justice of Ireland, in 1323, by his wife, Jane, dau. of Richard de Burgo, the Red Earl of Ulster. He left issue,

PATRICK, 9th baron, who received a patent of confirmation from JAMES I. of the several castles of Dunsany, Corbally, &c. His lordship was subsequently summoned to parliament 1st CHARLES I., and suffered considerably in the cause of that unfortunate prince. A short time before the year 1641, the lords-justices had supplied the Lords of the Pale with arms, but suddenly recalled them, which occasioned much discontent among the catholic lords, who, having assembled, appointed Lord Dunsany to assure the justices of their attachment and loyalty, and of their readiness to co-operate in every measure that could be conducive to the peace of the country. The lords-justices, however, took no further notice of this proferred service than by confining his lordship in the castle of Dublin, where he remained for several years; but on the restoration of CHARLES II he again took his seat in the House of Lords, and continued to sit until 1666. His lordship m. Jane, dau. of Sir Thomas Heneage, of Haynton, co. Lincoln, and was s. at his decease by his grandson,

RANDALL, 11th baron. This nobleman, adhering to the falling fortunes of JAMES II., was outlawed in 1691; but being included in the treaty of Limerick, his estates were restored; neglecting, however, the forms necessary to re-establish himself in the privileges of the peerage, neither his lordship nor his immediate descendants had a seat in the House of Lords. He m. 1st, Anne, relict of Theobald, 1st Earl of Carlingford, and dau. of Sir William Pershall, but by that lady had no issue. He m. 2ndly, 1711, Bridget, only dau. of Richard Fleming, Esq. of Stahalmock, co. Meath (by his 1st wife); and dying 16 March, 1735, left an only son,

EDWARD, 12th baron, b. 1713. This nobleman conformed to the established church, but took no step to confirm the barony and his right to a seat in the House of Peers. His lordship m. Aug. 1734, Mary, eldest dau. of Francis Alen, Esq. of St. Wolstan's, co. Kildare, M.P. for that shire (see BURKE'S Commoners), and d. 9 June, 1781, having had (with two daus., Bridget, wife of Hugh McGuire, Esq. of Kelston; and Rose, of the Marquess de Carondelet) an only son, his successor, RANDALL, 13th baron, b. in March, 1738-9, who claimed, in 1791, and was allowed, his seat in parliament. His lordship m. 1st, 12 Aug. 1771, Margaret, widow of Edward Mandeville, of Ballydine, co. DYSART.

DYSART, EARL OF (Sir William-John-Manners Tollemache), co. Fife, Baron Huntingtower, co. Perth, in the peerage of Scotland, and a Baronet of Great Britain, Lord-Lieut. co. Rutland, b. 2 March, 1859; s. his grandfather as 8th earl, 1878; m. 19 Nov. 1885, Cecilia-Florence, dau. of George-Onslow Newton, Esq. of Croxton Park, co. Cambridge.

Lineage.

The very ancient family of Tollemache claims Saxon descent.

HUGH DE TOLLEMACHE subscribed the charter sans date (about the reign of King STEPHEN), made by John de St. John to Edith, the first Abbess of Godstow, in Oxfordshire. This Hugh, in his old age, assumed the cowl at Gloucester, and bestowed upon that monastery a moiety of the town of Hampton, which his son, Peter, confirmed, in the time of the Abbot Hamblin. The descendant of Peter,

SIR HUGH DE TOLLEMACHE, in the 25th of EDWARD I., held of the crown the manor of Bentley, and the fourth part of the village of Aketon, by knight's service in the 29th of the same monarch,

WILLIAM and JOHN TOLLEMACHE had summons to attend the king at Berwick-upon-Tweed, previous to his expedition into Scotland. This John took the black cross, and his arms are now remaining in the minster at York.

SIR LIONEL TOLLEMACHE, of Bentley, flourished in the reigns of HENRY VI. and EDWARD IV., and was a personage of great influence and authority. He m. the heir of Helmingham, in Suffolk, and by that alliance acquired the inheritance. His son, John, was father of

LIONEL TOLLEMACHE, who was sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk in 1512; and in 1546, obtained from HENRY VIII. grants of the manor of Wansden, with the rectory thereof; the manor and rectory of Le Church Hey; the manors of Bury-Hall Willows and Overhall, to hold of the crown by knight's service. This gentleman was s. by his son,

LIONEL TOLLEMACHE, of Helmingham, high-sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk 1567, who m. Dorothy, dau. of Sir Richard Wentworth, of Nettlested, and was s. by his son,

SIR LIONEL TOLLEMACHE, high-sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk in 1593, who m. Susan, dau. of Sir Ambrose Jermyn, of Rushbrook, and was s. by his son,

I. SIR LIONEL TOLLEMACHE, Knt., high-sheriff of Norfolk and Suffolk in 1609, who was created a Baronet on the institution of the order, 22 May, 1611. Sir Lionel served the office of sheriff of Suffolk a second time, in 1617. He m. Katherine, dau. of Henry, 2nd Lord Cromwell, and granddau., maternally, of John, Marquess of Winchester, and was s. by his son,

II. SIR LIONEL. This gentleman had previously received the honour of knighthood. He was one of the burgesses of Orford, in the reigns of JAMES I. and CHARLES I. Sir Lionel m. Elizabeth, dau. of John, Lord Stanhope of Harrington, and had issue, besides LIONEL, his heir, six daus.,

Elizabeth, m. to William, Lord Alington.
Catherine, m. to Sir Charles Mordaunt, Bart.
Susannah, m. to Sir Henry Felton, Bart.
Anne, m. to Sir Robert Broke, Bart. of Nacton.
Jane, m. to Thomas Cholmondeley, Esq. of Vale Royal.
Bridget, m. to Sir Nicholas Bacon, Knt., of Shrubland.

Sir Lionel was s. by his son,

III. SIR LIONEL, who m. Lady Elizabeth Murray, elder dau. and heir of William Murray, 1st EARL OF DYSART and Lord Huntingtower. This

WILLIAM MURRAY was son of the Rev. William Murray, minister of Dysart, co. Fife, and nephew of Thomas Murray, preceptor to CHARLES I. when Prince of Wales. He was raised to the peerage of Scotland by that monarch, with whom he was a favourite, 3 Aug. 1643, as Lord Huntingtower and EARL

OF DYSART, with remainder to his heirs, male and female. (He was descended from the Murrays of Ochtertyre, a branch of the House of Tullibardine, ancestors of the Dukes of Atholl.) His lordship m. CATHERINE BRUCE, of the House of Clackmannan, and had issue,

ELIZABETH, who inherited as COUNTESS OF DYSART, and married, as just stated, Sir Lionel Tollemache.
Margaret, m. to William, 3rd Lord Maynard.

The elder dau.,

ELIZABETH, LADY TOLLEMACHE, s. her father as Countess of Dysart; and obtained, 5 Dec. 1670, from CHARLES II., a confirmation of her honours, with a clause in the charter, allowing her ladyship to nominate any of her issue she pleased as her heir. Lineage.

Robert of Montgomery (believed to be descended from Roger of Mundegumbri, one of the Norman nobles who accompanied William the Conqueror, and who was made Earl of Shrewsbury), obtained from Walter, 1st High Steward of Scotland, in the latter half of the 12th century, the lands of Eaglesham in Renfrewshire. His descendant,

John Montgomery, of Eaglesham, distinguished himself at the battle of Otterburn (1388), capturing Sir Henry Percy (Hotspur) who for his ransom had to build the castle of Polnoon in the barony of Eaglesham. He m. Elizabeth, dau. and heir (by his wife Egidia Stewart, half-sister of King Robert II. and widow of Sir James Lindsay of Crawford), of Sir Hugh Eglinton of that ilk, descendant and representative of Bryce Eglinton, who acquired certain lands from the community of Irvine, which were re-granted to his grandson Rodolph in 1295. By this marriage John Montgomery acquired the baronies of Eglinton and Ardrossan, and had issue John, his successor, and Alexander, who acquired from his mother the lands of Bonnington in the barony of Ratho in 1387. According to the ballad of "Chevy Chase," he had also a son, Hugh, slain at Otterburn. His eldest son,

Sir John Montgomerie, of Eaglesham and Eglinton, more usually designed "of Ardrossan," a hostage for the Earl of Douglas and for James I., m., 1st, Agnes of the Isles, 2ndly, Margaret, dau. of Robert Maxwell, of Caerlaverock, and d. in or before 1429, having had issue, Alexander, his successor; Robert, of Giffen, ancestor of that branch; Hugh; Anne, m. 1425, Sir Robert Cunningham of Kilmaurs; and Joan, m. Sir Thomas Boyd of Kilmarnock. Dying 9 July, 1680, he was s. by his only surviving son, ALEXANDER, 3rd Earl of Kincardine, on whose death, in Nov. 1705, his sister, Lady Mary Cochrane, claimed by a declarator in the court of session, the honours as against the heir male, Sir Alexander Bruce, of Broomhall (see above, descendants of Robert, 3rd son of Sir George Bruce, of Carnock), her claim being based on a resignation in her favour by the late earl not completed by a Crown charter (but which it was legally held to be in the power of the Crown to accept and complete), and also involving the question of the late earl's sanity. No final judgment was pronounced on the latter question, and protests were made by Lady Mary at the elections of 1707, 1708, and 1710, but the Queen not having interfered (which it has been held that the sovereign was not entitled to do after the Union), the right of the heir male must be held to have become indisputable.

ALEXANDER, 4th earl of Kincardine, who thus succeeded, had previously been representative in parliament for Sanquhar, and was allowed to sit as earl pending Lady Mary's action. Debts and litigations necessitated the sale of Carnock, which was bought by the Hon. Col. John Erskine, cousin german of the 1st earl (see BUCHAN, E.). Lineage.

SIR THOMAS EGERTON, b. in 1540 (the illegitimate son by Alice Sparke, of Richard Egerton, son and heir of Sir Ralph Egerton, of Ridley), having been brought up to the Bar, arrived at the highest honours of his profession, and filled, during the reign of ELIZABETH, successively, the important offices of attorney and solicitor general, master of the rolls, and Lord Keeper of the great seal. Upon the accession of JAMES I., Sir Thomas was appointed lord high chancellor of England, and elevated to the peerage (21 July, 1603), as Baron of Ellesmere, in the county alop; and further advanced, 7 Nov. 1616, to the dignity of Viscount Brackley. His lordship m. thrice, but had issue by the first marriage only. He d. 15 March, 1616–17, in the 7th year of his age, having received an intimation, immediately before his decease, that it was his majesty's intention to confer upon him the dignity of an earl, and an accompanying pension. This learned and distinguished nobleman was s. by his son,

JOHN, 2nd viscount, K.B., who was created, 27 May, 1617, Earl of Bridgewater. His lordship was appointed lord president of Wales, and the marches thereof, 12 May, 1633; and to this appointment the world is indebted for Milton's immortal masque of Comus. The earl d. in 1649, and was s. by his only surviving son,

JOHN, 2nd earl; who d. 26 Oct. 1686, leaving numerous issue, of whom,

JOHN, the eldest, succeeded.

Thomas, in holy orders, of Tatton Park, co. Chester; b. 16 March, 1651; m. Hesther, only dau. of Sir John Busby, Knt. of Addington, in Bucks, by Judith, his 1st wife, dau. and co-heir of Sir William Mainwaring, Knt. of West Chester, and by her (who d. in 1724) had four sons and one dau., viz.,

1 JOHN, his heir.
2 Thomas, b. in 1680; d. unm.
3 William, LL.D., chancellor and prebendary of Hereford, prebendary of Canterbury, rector of Penshurst, &c.; b. 6 July, 1682; m. Anne, dau. of Sir Francis Head, Bart. of Rochester, and d. 26 Feb. 1737, leaving, Charlotte, co-heiress, who m. Wm. Hammond, Esq. of St. Alban's Court, Kent, and d. 1770, leaving issue.
Jemima, co-heiress, who m. in 1747, Edward Brydges, Esq. of Wootton Court, Kent, and had, with other issue, the late SIR SAMUEL-EGERTON BRYDGES, Bart. of Denton Court.
4 Mainwaring, b. in 1683; d. in 1686.
1 Elizabeth, m. to the Rev. Peter Leigh, of the West Hall, High Leigh.

Mr. Egerton d. 29 Oct. 1685, was buried at Little Gaddesden, Herts, and s. by his eldest son,

JOHN EGERTON, Esq. of Tatton Park; b. 12 Feb. 1679, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Samuel Barbour, Esq., sister and heiress of Samuel Hill, Esq. of Shenstone Park, co. of Stafford, and by her, who d. 1743, had,

1 JOHN, his heir. 2 SAMUEL, successor to his brother,
1 HESTER, eventually sole heiress.
2 Elizabeth, d. unm. in 1763.

Mr. Egerton d. in 1724, and was s. by his elder son,

JOHN EGERTON, Esq. of Tatton Park, b. 14 Oct. 1710, who m. April, 1735, Christian, dau. of John Ward, Esq. of Capesthorne, but dying 1738, without male issue, was s. by his brother, SAMUEL EGERTON, Esq. of Tatton Park (see ante title of LORD EGERTON), devised his estates to his only sister.

HESTER EGERTON, who had m. in May, 1747, WILLIAM TATTON, Esq. of Withenshaw, but who, upon inheriting her brother's possessions, resumed, by sign-manual, 8 May, 1780, her maiden name. She d. the 9th of the following July, leaving a dau., Elizabeth Tatton, the wife of Sir Christopher Sykes, Bart. of Sledmere, M.P., and a son and successor,

WILLIAM-TATTON EGERTON, Esq. of Tatton and Wythenshawe, b. 9 May, 1749, grandfather of WILLIAM-TATTON EGERTON, BARON EGERTON of Tatton, and of his cousin, THOMAS-WILLIAM TATTON, Esq. of Wythenshawe.

the eldest son,

JOHN, 3rd earl, K.B. This nobleman m. twice, and left, his 2nd countess, Jane, dau. of Charles, Duke of Bolton, two sons, Scroope and Henry, and other children. His lordship d. 19 March, 1701, and was s. by his eldest son, SCROOPE, 4th earl; b. 11 Aug. 1681; master of the horse to Prince George of Denmark; created Marquess of Brackley and DUKE OF BRIDGEWATER, 18 June, 1720. His grace m. Alice; 1st, Elizabeth, 3rd dau. and co-heiress of John, 2nd Duke of Marlborough, by whom (who d. 22 March, 1714) he had two sons, who died young, and one dau., Anne, who m. Wriothesley, 3rd Duke of Bedford, and subsequently, the Earl of Jersey. The Duke of Bridgewater m. 2ndly, 2 Aug. 1722, Rachel, sister to his son-in-law, the Duke of Bedford, by whom he had to survive childhood, two sons, JOHN and FRANCIS, and three daus., LOUISA, Caroline, and Diana. The eldest dau., Louisa, was m. to Granville Leveson, 1st Marquess of Stafford. His grace d. 11 Jan. 1745, and was s. by his son, JOHN, 2nd duke, b. 29 April, 1727, at whose decease, unm. 8 March, 1748, the family honours devolved upon his brother.

FRANCIS, 3rd duke, b. 21 May, 1736. This nobleman justly acquired the reputation of being the great founder of inland navigation in this country, by his enterprising speculation in the celebrated canal which bears his name, and which has realized a princely revenue for his successors. His grace d. unm. 8 March, 1803, when the dukedom and marquessate expired, but the earldom and minor titles reverted to his cousin, GENERAL JOHN-WILLIAM EGERTON, 7th earl, son of the Right Reverend John, Lord Bishop of Durham, grandson of Dr Henry Egerton, Lord Bishop of Hereford, and grand-nephew of the 1st duke. His lordship's mother was Anna-Sophia, dau. and co-heiress of Henry Grey, Duke of Kent, which dukedom expired with his grace, in 1750. This nobleman (Lord Bridgewater), a person of singular eccentricity, was b. 13 April, 1753, and entering into the army, rose to the rank of major-general, 25 Feb. 1795; and of lieutenant-general, 1 Jan. 1801. His lordship m. 14 Jan. 1783, Charlotte-Catherine-Anne, only dau. and heiress of Samuel Haynes, Esq.; but dying s. p. 21 Oct. 1823, the family honours devolved upon his only brother, FRANCIS-HENRY, 8th earl, with whom the earldom expired. It was this 8th Earl who left £8,000 for the writing and publishing of the celebrated essays, known as the Bridgewater Treatises.

The last and celebrated Duke of Bridgewater, who amassed immense wealth, devised most of his houses and pictures (the latter valued at £150,000) to his nephew, George Granville, Marquess of Stafford, 1st Duke of Sutherland (see that title), with reversion to his grace's 2nd son, LORD FRANCIS EGERTON, b. 1 Jan. 1800, lord-lieut. of Lancashire, who assumed, 1833, the surname and arms of Egerton, and was raised to the peerage as EARL OF ELLESMERE-&c., 6 July, 1846. He m. 18 June, 1822, Harriet-Catherine, eldest dau. of Charles Greville, Esq., by Charlotte, his wife, dau. of William-Henry, 3rd Duke of Portland, and by her who d. 17 April, 1866) had issue.

ELPHINSTONE.

ELPHINSTONE, BARON (Sidney-Herbert Elphinstone), of Elphinstone, co. Stirling, in Scotland; Baron Elphinstone of Elphinstone, in the United Kingdom, b. 27 July, 1869, s. his father as 16th baron 1893.

Lineage.

The family of Elphinstone took this surname from the lands so named in Lothian, which they held in the 14th and 15th centuries from the Setons. In the reign o David II. they came into possession of part of Erth or Airth in Stirlingshire. In 1362 Alexander Elphinstone of that ilk gave certain lands in Stanehouse, which his father had acquired from Godfrey of Ross, to Alexander More, in exchange for part of Erthbeg. Sir William Elphinstone of that ilk had in 1399 a charter to himself and his issue male with remainder to his brothers, of the lands which he held from Sir William Lindsay of Byres. He had two sons, Alexander and William. The elder, Alexander Elphinstone of that ilk, was killed in a border raid at Piperden in Northumberland in 1436, leaving a dau. Janet, m. to Sir Gilbert Johnston, who s. to Elphinstone in t n, while the Stirlingshire estates passed to Alex-d s brother, Sir Henry Elphinstone of Pittendreich.

enry's grandson and successor,

J n Elphinstone, of Pittendreich, had charters of Erth, a rth (Craigforth), and the other Stirlingshire lands in nd 1497, and in 1503 these were resigned by Patrick r indsay of the Byres to be held by Elphinstone of the o n, and incorporated by charter under the designation
t barony of Elphinstone. He d. in 1508 or 1509.

A xander Elphinstone of that ilk, his son and heir, was f father's lifetime attached to the household of James a. Elizabeth Berlay, an English lady attached to the h hold of Queen Margaret, and had in 1507 and 1508 r us grants of large portions of the Earldoms of Mar and n ch, including Kildrummy with the custody of the s, the lands first conferred being united into the barony nernochty On 14 Jan. 1509-10, at the christening of is Arthur, he was made a Lord of Parliament as Lord p ustone; and in 1513 the above-mentioned possessions w re-granted to him and his wife, erected into the

His lordship is the 23rd high-constable, and as such is, by birth, the first subject in Scotland after the blood-royal, having a right to take place of every hereditary honour, which was allowed to his lordship's father on the visit of George IV. to North Britain.

Lineage.

A branch of the Norman De La Hayes, which settled in England at the Conquest, seems to have been the ancestors of the Scottish Hays. William de Haya, pincerna domini regis, in time of Malcolm IV. and William the Lion, is said to have been father both of William de Haya, who got from William the Lion the extensive lands of Erroll, co. Perth, and acquired large possessions by marriage with an heiress, whose christian name was Eva; and also of Robert de Haya, the ancestor of the house of Tweeddale. The last named, William, had six sons, of whom the eldest, David, m. Helen, dau. of Gilbert, Earl of Strathern, and had two sons, Gilbert, his heir, and William, from whom descend the Hays, of Leys (with the branches of Pitfour and Seggieden), and the Hays of Tillibothville. The eldest son, Gilbert de Haya, of Erroll, one of the regents in the minority of Alexander III., was father of Nicholas de Haya, whose son,

Sir Gilbert Hay, of Erroll, a steadfast adherent of Robert Bruce, got from that king the lands of Slains, in Aberdeenshire, and the high office of Constable of Scotland. That office, conferred on him before 1309, was made hereditary by a charter of 1314, limiting it to his heirs of line; dying in 1330 he was s. by his son,

Sir David Hay, of Erroll, who fell at the battle of Durham, 1346, leaving by his wife, a dau. of Sir John Keith, of Innerpeffer, a son,

Sir Thomas Hay, of Erroll, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of John, Lord of the Isles, by the Princess Margaret, his wife, dau. of Robert II., by Elizabeth More, and had issue, Sir William, his heir; and Gilbert, of Dronlaw, ancestor of the Hays, of Dronlaw, Park, &c. He d. 1406, and was s. by his eldest son,

Lineage.

Sir Geoffrey de Estmonte, Knt. of Huntington, co. Lincoln, accompanied Strongbow in the invasion of Ireland, A.D. 1172, and was one of the thirty knights who landed at Bannow, co. Wexford. The Visitation of Wexford by Molyneux, Ulster, commences with

James Esmonde, Esq. of Johnstown, co. Wexford, m. Isabel, dau. of Thomas Rosseter, Esq. of Rathmacknee Castle, and left a son, Laurence Esmonde, Esq. of Johnstown. This gentleman m. Eleanor, dau. of Walter Walsh, of The Mountains, by whom he had two sons, and was s. by the elder,

William Esmonde, Esq., who m. Margaret, dau. of Michael Furlong, Esq. of Horetown, and had, with seven daus., four sons, viz.,

i. Robert, living in 1618, who continued the line of Johnstown, which became extinct in the male line in 1785, at the death of the Rev. Laurence Esmonde, buried at Bannow.

ii. Laurence, of whom presently. iii. James.

iv. Patrick, whose dau., Katherine, m. Dudley Colclough, Esq. of Monart.

The 2nd son,

Sir Laurence Esmonde, commanded, in 1601-2, a troop of 150 foot and horse in Elizabeth's service, was knighted by Sir Henry Sydney, the lord-deputy, served in Connaught, and was raised to the peerage, in 1622 (being at the time major-general of all the king's forces in Ireland, and governor of Duncannon Fort), as Lord Esmonde, Baron of Limerick, co. Wexford. During one of his campaigns in Connaught, he married a sister of O'Flaherty, and had one son, Thomas. It happened, however, that Lady Esmonde, a devout Roman Catholic, fearing that her child might be brought up a Protestant, formed the resolution of carrying off the infant by stealth, and returning to her family in Connaught. This act of maternal devotion appears to have been not at all disagreeable to Sir Laurence, as affording him a pretext for casting suspicion on the legality of his union, that of a Protestant with a Catholic: yet, without resorting to legal measures to annul the marriage in due form, he some time after m. Elizabe 2nd dau. of the Hon. Walter Butler, 4th son of James, Earl of Ormonde, but by her had no issue. His lordshi 26 March, 1646, bequeathing all his extensive estates to only son,

I. Sir Thomas Esmonde, 1st baronet. The severity a singularity of his case created considerable interest; a there is scarce a doubt that, but for the melancholy st of civil war, usurpation, and destruction of property, at t period, and upon legal investigation into the matter and accompanying circumstances, the conduct of Lord Esmo towards his lady, and the legality of his lordship's secc marriage (his first undivorced wife still living), Sir Thon Esmonde's right of succession to his father's peerage co not fail to have been acknowledged. Before, however, t could have taken place, Sir Thomas died, and his succes had to occupy himself with entering into possession of grandfather's property. Sir Thomas Esmonde, as alre noticed, was reared and educated with his maternal lations; and upon his uncle being raised in the peer to the dignity of Viscount Bourke of Mayo, by privy-se dated at Westminster, 8 Feb. 1626, and by patent, 21 Ju 1627, Sir Thomas, who had already been knighted for eminent services in the cause of royalty, as general horse in the armies of Charles I. was created, throu Lord Mayo's influence, a few months later (28 Jan. 16 a Baronet of Ireland. Lineage.

Sir William Capell, Knt., Alderman of London, and Lord-Mayor in 1503 (2nd son of John Capell, Esq. of Stoke Neyland in Suffolk), attracting, by the immense wealth he had acquired, the notice of Empson and Dudley, the well-known extortioners of Henry VII., was fined £1600, to which he submitted; but to a second imposition of £2000, some years afterwards, under the pretence that, during his mayoralty, he had not duly punished a party brought before him for coining, he demurred, and was committed to the Tower, where he remained until the death of the king. He m. Margaret, dau. of Sir Thomas Arundel, Knt. of Lanhern in Cornwall; and dying in 1515, left (with two daus., Elizabeth, m. to William Paulet, 1st Marquess of Winchester; and Dorothy, m. to John, Lord Zouch of Harringworth) an only son,

Sir Giles Capell, Knt. of Raineshall, in Essex, so created for his valour at the sieges of Terouenne and Tournay, and the action at Guinegate, called the Battle of Spurs. Sir Giles waited on the king (Henry VIII.), in 1520, in the expedition into France, where he and others challenged all gentlemen there in feats of arms for four days. He was constituted sheriff of the cos. of Hertford and Essex, in the 20th of HENRY VIII. This gallant person m. twice, and left issue, by Isabel, dau. and heir of Sir Thomas Newton, his 2nd wife (only). He was s. by his elder son,

7, by his eldest son and companion in arms,

THOMAS, 3rd baron, b. 17 Jan. 1612; who had distinguished self as a republican military leader, as SIR THOMAS FAIRFAX.
was a participator in the victory obtained by his father at y, and commanded the right wing of the parliamentarians Marston Moor. In the 34th year of his age he was appointed eral-in-chief of the parliament's armies, and soon after ed the King at Naseby, retook Leicester, beat Col. Goring, Bridgewater, Dartmouth, Bristol, defeated Lord Hopton, ed the Prince of Wales to retire into France, and then,
cing the entire of the West, drove the King from Oxford May, 1646, in which year he was made governor of the er of London. After succeeding to the barony, he reduced chester; but he took no part in the subsequent proceedings he independents, and was entirely free of any participation he death of the king. In 1650, he resigned the command of army to CROMWELL; and nine years afterwards, his lord, coalescing with Monk, assisted zealously in restoring the narchy, and was one of the commissioners deputed, upon t occasion, to the king. Soon after this event, Lord Fairfax resented the co. of York in parliament; but passed the er end of his life in rural retirement. His lordship m.

The baron was s. 6 Jan. 1709-10, by his eldest son,

THOMAS, 6th baron, b. 1692. This nobleman inherited from his mother a considerable fortune, consisting of several manors in Kent, estates in the Isle of Wight, and a tract of land in Virginia, called the Northern Neck, comprised within the boundaries of the rivers Potomack and Rappahannock, containing, by estimation, 5,700,000 acres. From his father he inherited Denton Hall and other property in Yorkshire, but he was obliged by his mother and grandmother to dispose of those in order to redeem the Colepepper manors. His lordship had a commission in the horse guards, but visiting his American estates about the year 1739, was so captivated with the soil, climate, and beauties of Virginia, that he resolved to spend the remainder of his life there; and he soon after erected two mansions, Belvoir and Greenway Court, where he continued ever afterwards to reside in a state of baronial hospitality. His dress was plain and simple, his manners modest and unaffected, and his style of living magnificent. Such was his generosity, that he gave up his English estates to his brother Robert, and the surplus of his American income was distributed among his poor neighbours. His principal amusement was hunting; and after the chase he was wont to invite the whole field to partake of his hospitality. He had been educated in revolutionary principles, and had imbibed high notions of republican liberty. He was lieut. and custos rotolorum of Frederick County, and presided at the provincial courts of Winchester (U.S.), where, during the session, he kept an open table. His lordship d. unm., at Greenway Court, in 1782, when the title devolved upon his only surviving brother,

Lineage.

The very ancient and honourable family of SHIRLEY has had the good fortune to have been illustrated by an historical narrative, compiled by a distinguished member of its own house. Sir Thomas Shirley, of Botolph's Bridge, composed three distinct MS. histories of the SHIRLEYS, all of which are preserved in the British Museum, and in our own time, the late Mr. Evelyn-Philip Shirley, of Ettington and Lough Fea, a very learned and accomplished archæologist, wrote a comprehensive and able memoir of his illustrious house, under the title of "Stemmata Shirliana." From these authorities it appears that the Shirleys derive descent from SASUALLO or SEWALLUS DE ETINGDON whose name (says DUGDALE, in his Antiquities of Warwickshire) argues him to be of the old English stock. He resided at Nether-Etingdon, in the co. Warwick, about the reign of King EDWARD THE CONFESSOR, which place had been the seat of his ancestors, as there is reason to believe, for many generations before that period.

After the CONQUEST, the lordship of Etingdon was given to Henry, Earl of Ferrars, in Normandy, who was one of the principal adventurers with the Norman Duke WILLIAM, and was held under him by this Sewallus, with whose posterity, in the male line, it has continued to the present reign, the late Hon. George Shirley, who d. in 1787, having been owner thereof. This long continuance of ownership is mentioned by DUGDALE, who says, in his Warwickshire, that Etingdon is the only place in the county which could glory in an uninterrupted succession of its owners for so long a space of time.

As appears by Kenilworth Register, Sewallus de Etingdon, before mentioned, founded and endowed the church of Nether-Etingdon. That he was an eminent man, is obvious from his large possessions in the counties of Warwick, Lincoln, Northampton, and Derby, in the time of the CONQUEROR, few being allowed at that change to enjoy more than a part of their estates, and even obliged to hold that portion by military and other services, from their new lords. Therefore, if we may guess of his authority by the extent of his estate, which amounted to seventeen hides of land in this place only, he must have been no less than a Thane in the time of the Saxons, which was the same degree of honour among them as a Baron or Peer of England after the Norman CONQUEST; for, as the learned Selden observes, little more than five hides of land was an estate for some who were so dignified. He d. about 1085, and was s. by his only child,

FULCHER, who d. about 1105, leaving issue,

I. Sewallis, his heir.
II. Henry, from whom descended the family of Shirley of Ireton, co. Derby, who took the name of Ireton.
III. Fulcher, twice married, but d. s. p.
IV. Nicholas. V. Robert.

Sewallis, the eldest son, d. about 1129, leaving by his 1st wife, Matilda, dau. of Ridel of Halaughton, co. Derby,

I. Henry, his successor.
II. Fulcher, who held four knights' fees, but d. s. p.
III. Hugh, a priest.
IV. Ralph.
V. Richard.

Having translated his seat from Etingdon to Shirley in Derbyshire, he was the first of the family who called himself De Shirley. He was s. by his eldest son,

Henry, who held five knights' fees in Derbyshire, of Robert de Ferrers, Earl of Derby, and d. about 1165. He gave the lordship of Ivanbrook to the monks of Bildewas, and was a witness to the foundation charter of Merevalle Abbey. He left issue, by Joanna, dau. and heir of John de Clinton, of Essex, Sewallis, his son and heir, who, in 1167, acknowledged himself to hold of William de Ferrers, Earl of Derby, those nine knights' fees which Henry his father, and his uncle, sometime held of Earl Robert, grandfather to the said earl. He m. Isabel, dau. and co-heir of Robert Meynell, of Langley-Meynell, co. Derby, by whom he had a dau., Elizabeth, wife of John de Walton, son of Simon, Bishop of Norwich; and a son and heir,

Sir James de Shirley, who was a knight, and had free warren granted to him in all his demesnes at Shirley, in 1247, and at Etingdon, in 1255. He m. Agnes de Walton, dau. of Simon de Walton, Bishop of Norwich, and had issue by her, Sir Ralph, his successor He d. about 1278.

Sir Ralph de Shirley, in the 7th year of Edward I., held the manor of Ettendon, co. Warwick, of Edmund, Earl of Lancaster, the king's brother, by the service of two knights' fees. In the 28th of the same reign, he had the custodies of the cos. Salop and Stafford, with the castle of Shrewsbury, committed to his charge, and was sheriff of the cos. Derby and Nottingham in the 27th, 28th, and 30th of the same king. In the 3rd Edward II, he was constituted one of the justices of the co. Warwick, for the gaol delivery, and in two years after was elected to parliament for that co. He m. Margaret, dau. and co-heir of Walter de Waldeshief, of Fairfield, co. Derby, cup-bearer to Edward II.; and dying in 1327, was s. by his son,

This Sir Thomas is said to be "the great founder of the family of Shirley, famous in his time for his valour, and for the many services, &c., rendered to the Kings of England, against the French." He m. Isabel, granddau. of Ralph, Lord Basset of Drayton, and eventually heir of her brother Ralph, the last Lord Basset of that line (since whose decease that barony has been in abeyance (see Burke's Extinct Peerage), and, dying in 1362, was s. by his son,

Sir Hugh Shirley, Knt., who s. also to the estates of his uncle, Lord Basset of Drayton. This gentleman was made grand falconer to Henry IV. in 1400, and he was killed fighting on the side of the same monarch at the battle of Shrewsbury, being one of those who were habited as the king, and taken for him by the opposite party. He m. Beatrix, sister and heir of John de Braose, of West Neston, co. Sussex, and was s. by his son,

Sir Ralph Shirley, who was one of the chief commanders under Henry V., at the battle of Agincourt, and took a distinguished part in the subsequent French wars of the same monarch. He m. Joan, dau. and heir of Thomas Basset, of Brailsford, co. Derby, and was s. by his only son,

Ralph Shirley, constable of Melbourne Castle, and of the Castle in the Peak of Derbyshire; m. 1st, Margaret, dau. and sole heir of John de Staunton, of Staunton Harold, co. Leicester, by whom he had an only son, John, his successor. He m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir John Blount, Knt., and sister of Walter Blount, Lord Mountjoy, by whom he had Ralph Shirley, esquire of the body to Henry VII. He m. 3rdly, Lucia, dau. of Sir John Aston, of Atherton, widow of Sir John Byron, and of Sir Bertine Entwissel. He was s. by his elder son,

John Shirley, who m. Eleanor, dau. of Sir Hugh Willoughby, of Wollaton, co. Notts, and, dying in 1485, was s. by his son,

Sir Ralph Shirley, who was made a knight banneret, for the valour he had displayed at the battle of Stoke, 16 June, 1487. He m. four times, and had issue by his 2nd wife, Elizabeth, dau. and co-heir of Thomas Walsh, Esq. of Wanlep, co. Leicester, an only dau., Anne, heir to mother, m. to Sir Thomas Pultney, of Mislerton, co. Le ter; and by his last wife, Jane, dau. of Sir Robert Sheff Knt., an only son, his successor, in 1517,

Lineage.

The earliest authentic ancestor seems to be,

Adam Duff in Clunybeg, one of two sons of Adam Duff with the same designation. Adam Duff, the son, was b. about 1598, and d. between 1674 and 1677. He was a man of remarkable shrewdness and sagacity, and laid the foundation of the prosperity of the family. A supporter of the house of Stuart, he was fined by the Covenanters. He d. in possession of considerable wealth, leaving a numerous family, the eldest of whom,

Alexander Duff of Keithmore, his successor, was an extensive purchaser of land in Banffshire and Aberdeenshire during the period preceding the Union, when many of the old lairds were greatly impoverished. Keithmore, from which he took his designation, was a wadset from the Huntly family, and is now the property of the Duke of Richmond and Gordon. He m. Helen (who d. 1694), dau. of Archibald Grant, of Ballentomb (ancestor of the Grants of Monymusk, Barts.), a lady who brought him a large fortune, and to whose prudence and industry (according to Baird of Auchmedden) much of the future prosperity of the family was due. He d. about 1700, and a monument of some pretension was erected to his memory in Mortlach churchyard. He had issue,

i. Alexander of Braco, b. 1650, who added greatly to the estates acquired by his father, in which were now included Aberlour, Keith, Grange, and Mortlach, the latter including Balveny. He was Parliamentary representative of Banffshire at the Union. He m. Margaret Gordon, of the Lesmoir family, and besides three daus. had a son, William Duff of Braco, who m., but d. 1718, without surviving male issue.
ii. William, of Dipple, of whom below.
iii. Patrick, of Craigston, from whom the Duffs of Hatton and Fetteresso.

William Duff, of Dipple, the second son, purchased Dipple, Pluscardine, and other estates in Morayshire. On his nephew's death in 1718, he succeeded to his estates in addition to his own. On his own death in 1722, he left his estates to his eldest son, with a rental of £6,500 sterling, all clear, in those days the largest fortune in the north of Scotland. He m. 1st, Helen, dau. of Sir George Gordon, of Edinglassie; 2ndly, Jean dau. of Sir William Dunbar, of Durn, Bart., and had issue by both marriages, the only son by the first wife being his successor,

William Duff, of Braco and Dipple, b. 1697; who was M.P. for the county of Banff, 1727-34, and in 1735 was created Baron Braco of Kilbride, in the county of Cavan, Ireland, and in 1759 Viscount Macduff and Earl Fife in the peerage of Ireland. He purchased considerable estates in the counties of Aberdeen, Banff, and Moray, and proved a careful manager of them. About 1724 he built the new castle or house of Balvenie. In 1740-45, he erected Duff House at a cost of £70,000. In 1745 he joined the Duke of Cumberland, and made a free offer of his services to Government in any way that might be desired. He m. 1st, 1719, Lady Janet Ogilvie, dau. of James, Earl of Findlater and Seafield, and widow of Hugh Forbes the younger, of Craigievar, who d. 1721. By her he had no issue; 2ndly, Jean, dau. of Sir James Grant, of Grant, Bart. (who d. in 1788, aged 82), by whom he had,

William, b. 1726; d. unm. 1753.
James, his successor.
Alexander, who s. his brother.
George, m. 7 April, 1757, Frances, dau. of Gibson-Dalzell, and granddau. of General Robert Dalzell, by Ann-Maria, his wife, dau. of Sir John Gibson (see Gibson, Bart.); d. 23 Nov. 1818, leaving a son, George.
Ludovic, m. Deborah, dau of Griffith Davis, Esq.; d. s. p. 14 Oct. 1811.
Arthur, of Orton.
Anne, m. Alexander Duff, of Hatton; d. June, 1805.

Margaret, m. 6 March, 1768, James Brodie, of Brodie, was accidentally burnt to death in 1786.

The 1st Earl Fife d. 30 Sept. 1763, at Rothiemay, where latterly resided. There is a monument to his memory, that of Jane, Countess of Fife, within the mausoleum at House. He was s. by his eldest surviving son,

James, 2nd Earl Fife, b. 1729, who was created a peer Great Britain, 19 Feb. 1790, as Baron Fife. He was M.P. the county of Banff for several years after 1754, and for county of Elgin 1784. By judicious purchases he nea doubled the possessions of his family, which now inclu Innes, Inchbroom, Spynie, Braemar, &c. He changed name of the town of Doune to Macduff, and procured for royal charter constituting it a burgh. He m. Lady Dorot Sinclair, only child of Alexander, 9th Earl of Caithness, d. without male issue, 24 Jan. 1809, when his title of Ba Fife expired, and the other honours devolved on his brother

Alexander, 3rd Earl Fife, b. 1731; m. 17 Aug. 1775, Ma au. of George Skene, of Skene, and had issue,

I. Mary-Elizabeth, b. 10 Oct. 1892.
II. Henrietta-Maria, b. 14 May, 1894.

Lineage.

This noble family is of Danish origin, but its settlement in Ireland is so remote that nothing certain can be ascertained as to the precise period. So early as the 11th century we find

John Plunkett was seated at Beaulieu, or Bewley, co. Meath, the constant residence of the elder branch of his descendants. The successor at Bewley, in the beginning of the 13th century,

John Plunkett, living temp. Henry III, had two sons; John, ancestor of the Lords Louth, and

Richard Plunkett, of Rathregan, co. Meath, who, with his son and heir,

Richard Plunkett, by royal writs of parliamentary summons, was summoned to, and sat in the parliaments and great council of 1374; the one as a baron, and the other "de concilio regis." The younger Richard Plunkett was father of Sir Christopher Plunkett, Knt. This gentleman, as a recompense for the services he had rendered in the wars of Ireland, and an indemnity for the expenses he had incurred, had a grant of a sum of money from Henry VI, in 1426; before which time he was sheriff of Meath; and in 1432, was deputy to Sir Thomas Stanley, Knt., lord-lieut. of Ireland. Sir Christopher m. in 1403, Joan, only dau. and heir of Sir Lucas Cusac, Knt., Lord of Killeen, co. Meath, and became in her right proprietor of the barony of Killeen, and by her had issue,

I. John, his heir, of Killeen.
II. Christopher, ancestor of Lord Dunsany.
III. Thomas, of Rathmore, chief justice, ancestor of the Plunketts of Rathmore.
IV. Rowland, whose son and heir, Sir Thomas Plunkett, chief justice of the Common Pleas in Ireland, was ancestor of Plunkett of Dunsoghlin.

He d. in 1445, and was s. by his eldest son,

John Plunkett, 2nd Lord of Killeen, who was s. by his son,

Sir Christopher Plunkett, 3rd Lord of Killeen. This feudal lord m. twice; 1st, Genet, dau. of Bellew of Bellewstown, by whom he had two sons, the younger of whom, Broughton, fell at the battle of Stoke in 1487, fighting for Lambert Simnel. Sir Christopher m. 2ndly, Elizabeth, dau. of Sir William Wells, Lord Chancellor of Ireland, by his wife, a dau. of Barnewall of Crickstoun, by whom (who was m. 2ndly, to John Fleming, Lord Slane) he had a dau., who m. Nicholas, 16th Baron of Howth, and two sons. Sir Christopher d. in 1487, and was s. by his eldest son,

Christopher Plunkett, 4th Lord of Killeen, who had summons to parliament in 1463. He d. without issue, and was s. by his brother and heir male, Edmund Plunkett, Lord of Killeen, whose titles and descent are set forth in a statute of the year 1470, and who is styled, in the roll bearing date 1481, as Edmundus Plunkett, Dominus de Killeen. He had issue a son and heir.

Sir John Plunkett, Lord of Killeen, who was sworn of the Privy Council to Henry VIII. He m. 1st, Margaret Preston, and 2nd, Ellen Barnewall, and d. 19 March 4 Edward VI, when it was found by inquisition that he left four sons, Christopher, his heir; Henry; James, heir to his brother; Patrick; and a dau. Margaret. His son, Christopher Plunkett, who sat in the parliament of 1559. He m. Alice, dau. of Sir Christopher Barnewall, Knt., of Crickstown, by Hon. Catherine Fleming, his wife, dau. of Christopher, 13th Lord Slane, and left issue, three daus., his co-heirs, Maude, m. to the Baron of Louth.

Catherine, m. to David Sutton, Esq.
Margaret, m. to Nicholas Aylmer, Esq. of Dollardstown.

Christopher was s. by his brother and heir male,

James Plunkett, Lord Killeen, whose inheritance of the ancient family dignity was not opposed or questioned by the daus. co-heirs of his deceased brother, and he took his place in the House of Peers in the year 1585. On the 15 April, 1589, he enfeoffed trustees in his family estates. He m. Margery, dau. of Richard FitzGerald Esq., of town, co. Meath, and had five sons and three daus eldest son,

Lineage.

The title of Knight of Kerry is of a very peculiar character, and, though not a regal honour, has been held as a prescriptive right from mediæval times, and at various periods recognized by the Crown. The ancestor of this line of the Geraldines, JOHN FITZTHOMAS FITZGERALD, Lord of Decies and Desmond, by virtue of his royal seignory as a Count Palatine, created three of his sons by his second marriage, hereditary knights, and thus originated the titles of the White Knight, the Knight of Glyn, and the Knight of Kerry.

According to the pedigree of the Knights of Kerry, drawn out by BETHAM, Ulster, the descent is as follows,

MAURICE FITZGERALD, the third son of John FitzThomas, Lord of Decies and Desmond, by Honora, his second wife, was the 1st Knight of Kerry. His son,

JOHN FITZGERALD, Knight of Kerry, was father of

RICHARD FITZGERALD, Knight of Kerry, father of

MAURICE FITZGERALD, Knight of Kerry, Lord of Rathanan and Inismore, who was father of

NICHOLAS FITSGERALD, Knight of Kerry, whose son,

JOHN FITZGERALD, Knight of Kerry, called the Blind Bishop of Ardfert, living 1405, was father of

SIR MAURICE FITZGERALD, Knight of Kerry, m. and had three sons; the eldest of whom, SIR MAURICE FITZGERALD, Knight of Kerry, is styled in a record, "Domino Mauritio Militi de Kerry," 12 HENRY VII.; the 2nd, JOHN, was father of WILLIAM, heir to his uncle; and Robert, of Alloone, whose eventual representative, Joan Fitzgerald, m. Sir Gerald Aylmer, Bart.

SIR WILLIAM FITZGERALD, son of John, s. his uncle, Sir Maurice. He was father of

JOHN FITZGERALD, of Rathanan and Inismore, Knight of Kerry, who settled his estates on his heirs male, by deed, dated 8 Jan. 1573. By Shela, his wife, dau. of O'Sullivan More, he left a son and successor,

WILLIAM FITZGERALD, of Rathanan, Knight of Kerry, m. Mary, dau. of Charles O'Conor, of Derrymullen, Kings co., and d. 6 Nov. 1640. leaving, inter alios, a son and heir,

SIR WILLIAM FITZWILLIAM, Knt., m. Eleanor, dau. and heir of Sir John Elmley, of Elmley and Sprotburgh, and thus acquired those lordships which continued with the Fitzwilliams until the reign of HENRY VIII., when they were carried, by co-heirs, to Suthill and Copley. Sir William was s. by his son.

SIR WILLIAM FITZWILLIAM, Lord of Elmley and Sprotburgh, living 1117, as appears from a grant made by him of a piece of wood in Elmley to the monks of Piland. To this grant is a round seal, representing a man on horseback, completely armed, and circumscribed, S. Willmi Filij Willmi Dni de Emmalaia: and on the reverse, the arms of Fitzwilliam; viz., Lozengy. This Sir William, or one of his descendants, caused a cross to be set up in the High Street of Sprotborough, with these words engraven on brass:—

"Whoso is hungry, and lists to eate,
Let him come to Sprotburgh to his meate;
And for a night, and for a day,
His horse shall have both corn and hay,
And no man shall ask him where he goeth away."

Lord Clermont, in his History of the Fortescues, f refers to the origin of the noble house of which he was a tinguished scion. The venerable and almost uniform tr tion is as follows:—"Sir Richard le Fort, a very str man, a Norman knight, and cupbearer to the Duke of N mandy, landed in England with his master in the y 1066, and fighting in the great battle of Hastings, saved Duke, who had three horses killed under him, from so great peril, protecting him with his shield from the blo of an assailant. In allusion to this deed of valour, Richa before named Le Fort, under which name, as Fort or Fo he appears in Grafton's and Holinshed's copies of the R of Battle Abbey, was thenceforward known as "Richard Fort-Escu," or the Strong Shield, "which surname," s Holinshed, "is deduced from the strength of his shie whereof that familie had first originall." The son of t gallant warrior,

Sir Adam Fortescue, Knt., being also a participator in t same conflict, obtained, it is stated, from the success monarch a grant of Wymondeston, or, as it is now writt

GAGE.

GAGE, VISCOUNT (Sir Henry-Charles Gage), of Castle Island, co. Kerry; Baron Gage, of Castlebar, co. Mayo, in Ireland; Baron Gage, of High Meadow, co. Gloucester, in Great Britain; and a Baronet, D.L. for Sussex, b. 2 April, 1854; s. his grandfather as 5th viscount, 20 Jan. 1877; m. 23 July, 1894, Leila-

Georgina, 2nd dau. of Rev. Frederick Peel, M.A., Vicar of Little Malvern, co. Worcester (see PEEL, Bart.), and has issue, HENRY-RAINOLD, b. 30 Dec. 1895.

Lineage.

The SIRE DE GAUGI is named on the Roll of Battle Abbey among those who fought at Hastings, and appears to have derived his name from the seignory of Gaugy, near Rouen, in Normandy. RALPH DE GAUGI paid his aid as tenant in capite, towards marrying the king's daughter in 1166. His son, Robert, was a strong adherent of King JOHN in his wars with the barons. He obtained Thornton and Langester, in the bishopric of Durham, by marriage with Beatrice, dau. and heir of Robert Lovel, by whom he had two sons, Ralph, the eldest, d. 1243, whose son, of the same name, d. 1279; and his successor, ADAM DE GAUGI, dying s. p. in 1287, the estates passed to the De Cliffords.

WILLIAM DE GAUGE, 2nd son of Robert, was made constable of Caermarthen Castle, by HENRY III. in 1234, and received from that monarch several grants of lands in South Wales and Gloucestershire. From him the extant GAGES derive; and they continued to reside at Cirencester, co. Gloucester, until the death of JOHN GAUGE, or GAGE (only son of John de Gauge, of Cirencester), who had m. Joan, dau. and co-heir of John Sudgrove, of Sudgrove-in-Miserden, co. Gloucester; and dying circa 1440, was s. by his son,

SIR JOHN GAGE, Knt. of Burstowe, co. Surrey, who acquired that seat, as well as Penshurst, in Kent and considerable estates in Sussex and Buckinghamshire, with his wife Eleanor, dau. and co-heir of Thomas St Clere (only son of Sir Philip St. Clere, Knt. of Igtham, by Margaret, sole heir of Sir Nicholas de Lovayne, Knt. of Burstowe, and grandson of Sir Philip St. Clere, Knt., M.P. for Sussex in 1377). He d. in 1476, leaving two sons, of whom John was ancestor of the GAGES of Rushton, co. Northampton, whilst the elder.

WILLIAM GAGE, s. to Burstowe. Penshurst, afterwards so celebrated as the property of the Sidneys, and the theme of Waller's verse, being sold, this William formed a seat, where his heirs still reside, at West Firle, on the manor of Heighton-St. Clere, which had come to his mother's family by the marriage of John de St. Clere (who d. 1327) with Isolda, sole heir of Thomas de Aldham, of Igtham and Aldham, in Kent. Mr. Gage m. Agnes, sister of John Bolney, of Bolney, in Sussex, M.P. for that co. 1459, and dying 1496, was s. at Firle, by his son,

SIR JOHN GAGE, K.G., a distinguished soldier and statesman, whose services are thus detailed in an ancient MS. by his 3rd son Robert. "Sir John Gage, Knt. who was, after his father's death, in ward to W. Stafford, Duke of Buckingham, and after his marriage to my mother, dau. of Sir Richard Guldeford, was preferred by the said duke to HENRY VIII.'s service, and distinguished himself at the siege of Terovene, was thereupon made captain of the castle of Calais (usually called Guysnes), shortly after was sent for home, and knighted, and made of the privy-council, vice-chamberlain, and captain of the guards; few years after, for services done on the borders of Scotland, at his return, was made comptroller of the household, and chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in one day. In a few days after he was made constable of the Tower of London, and, the next St. George's feast, knight of the most noble order of the Garter; at the winning of Bullogne (36th HENRY VIII.), he was in joint commission with Charles, Duke of Suffolk, lord-lieutenant of his majesty's camp; and for sundry services there with Sir Anthony Browne, Knt., master of the horse, was made general captain of the bands of horsemen. After the death of our sovereign lord EDWARD VI., at the coming of Queen MARY, was made her lord-ch amberlain. Thus, having served in all these rooms and offices truly, faithfully, and painfully, from the 1st year of our sovereign lord HENRY VIII., of famous memory, unto the 5th year of Queen MARY, untouched with any reproach or unfaithful service, at this time being 77 years of age, he ended his life, in favour with his prince, at his own house, at Firle, in Sussex."

This eminent person m. Philippa, dau. of Sir Richard Guldeford, K.G., and had (with four daus. Alice, m. Sir Anthony Browne, K.G., Anne, m. John Thatcher, Esq. of Priestshaws, in Sussex) four sons, namely,

Mr. Noel was s. at his decease by the eldest son of his first marriage,

SIR ANDREW NOEL, Knt. of Dalby, in the co. of Leicester, who was a person of great note in the time of ELIZABETH, living in such magnificence as to vie with noblemen of the largest fortunes. Fuller, in his Worthies of England, saith, that this Andrew, "for person, parentage, grace, gesture, valour, and many other excellent parts (amongst which skill in music), was of the first rank in the court." He was knighted by Queen ELIZABETH, and became a favourite, but the expenses in which he was involved obliged him to sell his seat and manor at Dalby. Her majesty is said to have made the following distich upon his name—

"The word of denial, and letter of fifty,
Is that gentleman's name who will never be thrifty."

He was thrice sheriff of the co. of Rutland, and member for that shire in several parliaments during the reign of Queen ELIZABETH. Sir Andrew m. Mabel, 6th dau. of Sir James Harrington, Knt., and sister and heir of John, Lord Harrington, of Exton, by whom he had issue, LEOPOLD-ERNEST-STRATFORD-GEORGE (to whom H.R.H. Prince Leopold stood sponsor), b. 21 July, 1878.

Lineage.

The name of Canning is derived from the manor of All Cannings, in Wiltshire, at which the family was originally seated, and the senior line continued, until it terminated in co-heiresses in the time of HENRY VII. The first on record is RICHARD DE KANYNGES, who filled the office of priest at Little Cheveril in 1299; another is John de Kanynges, who became Abbot of the Monastery at Abingdon, his elevation being confirmed by EDWARD II.; and the next is a younger son,

ROBERT CANYNGES, who settled in Bristol, and who founded a branch which became the most eminent family of that city during the 14th and 15th centuries. He first appears as an eminent merchant in 1322. He was father of

WILLIAM CANYNGES, who represented Bristol in several successive parliaments, and was no less than six times mayor of that city. He d. in 1396, leaving, with other issue,

JOHN CANYNGE, his son and heir, who twice became Mayor of Bristol and once member for it in parliament. He d. in 1405, leaving by Joan Wotton, his wife, with three daus., three sons,

I. JOHN, his heir.
II. Thomas (Sir), of whom presently.
III. WILLIAM, who undertook the complete restoration of St. Mary Redcliffe Church, still the chief ornament of Bristol, and is the hero of the Rowley Poems (Chatterton). This William Canning was twice M.P. for Bristol, and to the mayoralty of that city, which had become a sort of heirloom in his family, he was elected no less than five times; he was the celebrated mayor of Bristol in the reign of EDWARD IV., and received during his third mayoralty, MARGARET of Anjou, and during his fourth, King EDWARD IV. Large sums of money having been advanced by him to aid his sovereign, EDWARD IV., it was proposed to him, by way of compensation, that he should marry a natural dau. of the king. Faithful, however, to the memory of his first wife, he did not listen to the proposal, and in order to evade the king's command took holy orders. He d. in 1476, dean of the college of Westbury, which he had founded.

The 2nd son,

SIR THOMAS CANNINGE, was Lord Mayor of London 1456, By his marriage with Agnes, the eldest dau. and co-heir of John Salmon and Eustatia, his wife, dau. and co-heir of John le Marshall, he acquired the estate of Foxcote, co. Warwick, which had been vested in this family from the time of the conquest; he was s. by his son and heir,

RICHARD CANNINGE, Esq. of Foxcote, who m. Mary, dau. of Humphrey Compton, and had two sons,

I. Thomas, his heir.
II. John, ancestor of the Cannings of Todenham, co. Gloucester.

The elder son,

THOMAS CANNINGE, Esq. of Foxcote, m. Jane, dau. of Richard Boughton, of Condecot, co. Gloucester, and was father of

RICHARD CANNINGE, Esq. of Foxcote, who m. Elizabeth, dau. of Richard Petty, of Ilmington, co. Warwick, and had issue,

I. RICHARD, ancestor of CANNING of Foxcote Hall, co. Warwick (see BURKE'S Landed Gentry).
II. Edward, ancestor of the Cannings of Euston, co. Oxford.
III. Isaac, a Turkey merchant, d. at Constantinople.
IV. Paul, ambassador to the Great Mogul, d. at Agra.
V. William, of Basingshaw Blackwell Hall, London, master of the Worshipful Company of Ironmongers.
VI. GEORGE, of whom presently.
I. Maria, m. to John Riland, Esq. of Queenton, co. Gloucester.
II. Anne, m. to Thomas Rownie, Esq. of Darlingscot, co. Worcester.

The youngest son,

GEORGE CANNING, of Barton, co. Warwick, removed into Ireland in the reign of Queen ELIZABETH, obtained a grant of the manor of Garvagh, and settled there. He had also a lease from the Ironmongers' Company of their estate at Agivey, called the manor of Lizard, which did not expire until nearly 200 years afterwards; and in the Calendar of Irish State Papers for the reign of JAMES I. there is a good description given of the castle that he built for the protection of these lands. He m. Anne, dau. of Gilbert Walker, Esq. of Walford, co. Worcester, and d. 1646, having had two sons, Paul, his heir, who built the church of Agivey, but d. soon afterwards, and was s. by his brother,

WILLIAM CANNING, a col. in the Londonderry militia, who was killed in the rebellion of 1641, while bravely defending, with only a small party of armed followers, a post in the neighbourhood of his estate. He left an only son,

*On the 30 Sept. previously, the Gazette announced the ulled elevation of his lordship to a viscounty; but he before the patent passed.

George Canning, who commanded a company within the walls of Derry during the celebrated siege of that city, and although attainted of his lands by James II., was s. at Garvagh by his son, also named George Canning, who greatly improved his estate. He m. 1697, Abigail, dau. of Robert Stratford, Esq., and aunt of John, 1st Earl of Aldborough, and d. 1711, leaving by her (who m. 2ndly, Major Cudmore) a son, Stratford Canning, Esq. of Garvagh, b. 1703; m. 1734, Letitia, dau. and sole heiress of Obadiah Newburgh, Esq. of Ballyhaise, co. Cavan, and Kilbrahan, co. Kilkenny, by whom he had issue,

I. George, of the Middle Temple, barrister-at-law, author of a volume of poems. He m. 1768, Mary-Anne, dau. of Jordan Costello, Esq., and d. 1771 (having incurred the displeasure of his father, and the penalty of disinheritance, by an improvident marriage), leaving an only child,

George, who having passed through Eton and Oxford with more than ordinary éclat, entered early into public life, and for several years filled some of the higher offices of state. Sustained alone by his transcendent talents and enlightened views, George Canning, in 1827, became First Lord of the Treasury, Prime Minister, and Chancellor of the Exchequer. But scarcely had the hopes of the nation been raised by this most popular appointment than they were dissipated by his death, which occurred 8 Aug. in the same year. He m. in 1800, Joan, dau. of Major-Gen. John Scott, and by her (who was created Viscountess Canning of Kilbrahan, co. Kilkenny, and d. 1837) he had three sons and one dau., viz.,

i. George-Charles, b. April, 1801; d. March, 1820.

ii. William-Pitt, capt. R.N., drowned while bathing at the island of Madeira in Sept. 1828.

iii. Charles-John, b. 14 Dec. 1812, who s. as Viscount, and was afterwards created Earl Canning, K.G., P.C., and G.C.B.; filled also different offices of state. Lineage.

SIR ALEXANDER GIBSON, of Durie, co. Fife, one of the most eminent lawyers of his day (son of George Gibson, clerk of Session, and Elizabeth Airth), was made a clerk of Session in 1594, JAMES VI. being present. He was knighted; made a Lord of Session as Lord Durie 1621, reappointed 1640, and chosen president of the Court, 1642. In 1682 inchoate steps were taken for bestowing on him a Baronetcy of Nova Scotia (by sasine being conferred on him of the barony of Durie in Anticosti), but that dignity seems not to have been actually conferred on him, as not only is neither the patent nor its warrant on record, but none of the family assumed the title previously to the patent of 1702. He d. 10 June, 1644, having m. 14 Jan. 1596, Margaret, dau. of Sir Thomas Craig, of Riccarton, the celebrated feudal lawyer, and had, with other issue,

Lineage.

Maurice, Lord of Prendergast, in Pembrokeshire, "a righte valiaunte captain," says Holinshed, was one of the Norman knights who united with Strongbow, Earl of Pembroke, in the invasion of Ireland. He landed in May, 1169, at the head of ten knights and two hundred archers, took a prominent part in the successful war which followed, and obtained an ample share of the conquered lands. In 1177, he gave his castle of Prendergast, in Wales, to the knights of St. John of Jerusalem; and eventually joining that order, was prior of Kilmainham at his death in 1205. From Gerald, his youngest son, descended the Prendergasts of Mayo, whose Irish title of MacMaurice gave name to the barony of Clanmorres, and of which family Lord Oranmore represents the Castle Macgarret branch, whilst his eldest son,

Philip de Prendergast, was summoned as a baron in 1206, 1207, and 1221. He m. Maude, dau. and heir of Robert de Quincy, with whom he acquired the town of Enniscorthy and constableship of Leinster. He d. 1226, leaving issue, Gerald, his heir: William, of whom hereafter; and David, who was in the hands of his kinsman Sayer de Quincy, earl of Winchester, as a hostage for the loyalty of the Earl of Pembroke during the Barons' War, but was released by royal writ signed at Runnymede, 12 June, 1215, during the conferences with the barons, which resulted in the grant of Magna Charta. The eldest son,

Gerald de Prendergast, who founded the Abbey of Enniscorthy, m. 1st, Matilda, dau. of Theobald le Botiller, by whom he had an only dau., Maria, wife of John, Lord Cogan. He m. 2ndly, Matilda, dau. of Richard de Burgo, and sister of the Earl of Ulster, by whom he had likewise an only dau., Matilda, who m. Maurice de Rochfort; and dying in 1251, his estates, including forty knights' fees in Wexford and Cork, fell to their issue as co-heirs, whilst the representation of the family devolved on his brother,

William de Prendergast, younger son of Philip, who obtained the lordship of Newcastle, co. Tipperary, from Jeffrey de Marisco, circa 1230, in exchange for other lands. By his wife Alianore, who appears to have been co-heir of William de Bermingham; he had issue, John and Jeffrey, of whom the former d. s. p. in 1275, when his brother,

Jeffrey de Prendergast, s. to Newcastle. Richard, Lord Slane, however, contested his right thereto; and Piers de Bermingham seized his castle of Mullough, which he recovered at law in 1276, but it was burnt by Lord Slane in the following year. He was summoned to the parliament of 1281, and fined one hundred shillings for being absent. His eldest son,

Sir Philip de Prendergast was involved in further litigation with Lord Slane. He d. 1303, leaving three sons, Jeffrey, his heir: Maurice, whose son John, though blind, eventually inherited Newcastle, and was ancestor to Viscount Gort; and Sir Philip, of Drangan, co. Tipperary. The eldest son,

Jeffrey de Prendergast, m. Isolda, dau. of Piers, 3rd Lord Athenry, whose ward he had been. He was sheriff of Tipperary in 1327. To him, Baldwin, Lord Slane, gave up his claim to the manor of Newcastle, by a deed dated 13 Jan. 1311, enrolled in the Court of Exchequer in Ireland; and as this estate continued henceforth in the undisputed possession of this family, we shall at once proceed to

James FitzThomas Prendergast, Esq. of Newcastle, who m. Eleanor, dau. of Sir John Grace, Knt. of Courtstown, and d. 3 Feb. 1575, leaving several sons, of whom, Edmond, of Tullaghmelan, was M.P. for Tipperary in 1585; whilst the eldest,

Lord Gough entered the army in 1794; and after serving at the capture in Saldanha Bay, and during the campaign in the West Indies, and the Brigand war, obtained his majority in the 87th (then Prince of Wales' Irish) regt., which corps he commanded at Talavera, Barrosa, Vittoria, Nivelle, Cadiz, and Tarifa, for his conduct at which (particularly the last), he had an honourable augmentation to his arms—of a chief, containing a representation of the breach—granted him. He became a major-gen. in 1830, and went to India in 1837, in command of a division of the Indian army, whence he was ordered to China, to take command of the British troops employed there, which appointment he held at the attack on Canton (for which he was honoured with the Grand Cross of the Bath), and during the whole series of operations, which were concluded by the signature of the treaty. For these services he received his baronetcy, and was honoured with the thanks of both houses of parliament. Subsequently, he became commander-in-chief of the forces in India; and while in that elevated position, commanded the army in person in the campaign against the Mahrattas, which concluded with the victory of Maharajpore; and in the first and second campaigns against the Sikhs, which were ended, respectively, by the actions of Sobraon and Goojerat. For these brilliant achievements he was rewarded with a barony and viscountcy, and thrice received the thanks of parliament. He d. 2 March, 1869, and was s. by his son,

III. Robert-Vernon, b. 11 Aug. 1883.
IV. George-Edward, b. 19 Jan. 1890.

Lineage.

Sir John Graham, of Kilbride, younger son of Malise Graham, Earl of Strathern (see Montrose, Duke of), is claimed as the ancestor of this and other families of Graham belonging to the "debateable land,"

Fergus Graham, Esq. of Plomp, m. Sibill, dau. of William Bell, Esq. of God's Brigg, in North Britain, and had four sons; the 2nd of whom,

I. Richard Graham, Esq., gentleman of the horse to James I., was created a Baronet, 20 March, 1629, by the tyle of Sir Richard Graham, of Esk, co. Cumberland. This gentleman purchased Netherby and the barony of Liddell, in the same county, of Francis, Earl of Cumberland. Sir Richard subsequently distinguished himself under the royal banner, particularly at Edge-Hill, where he was severely wounded, and lay amongst the slain for an entire night. He m. Catherine, dau. and co-heir of Sir Thomas Musgrave, of Cumcatch, Cumberland, and was s. in 1653, by his elder son (the younger, Richard, was created a Baronet in 1662—see Graham of Norton-Conyers),

II. Sir George, who m. Lady Mary Johnston, dau. of James, 1st Earl of Hartfell, and sister of James, Earl of Annandale, and had, with other issue,

i. Richard, his successor, of whom presently.

1 Charles, in holy orders, rector of South Church, in Essex, m. Priscilla Billingley, of Tottenham, and by her (who m. 2ndly, Joseph Bezeley, Esq.) had issue,

William, in holy orders, who inherited the baronetcy upon the decease of the last Viscount Preston.
Thomas-Fane-Charles, in holy orders, m. Anne, dau. of Joseph Harrington, Esq. of Clare, co. Suffolk, and widow of the Rev. Francis Greenwood, by which 1st husband she had an only son, Charles Greenwood, Esq., an eminent army-agent, and a dau., Anne, m. to Thomas Hammersley, Esq. of Pall Mall.
Bridget, m. to Thomas Elkington, Esq. of Coventry.

2 Robert, in holy orders, D.D., who succeeded to the Preston estates upon the decease of Lady Widdrington.

Sir George d. in 1657, and was s. by his eldest son,

III. Sir Richard, who was advanced, in 1680, to the peerage of Scotland, as Viscount Preston, and took his seat in the Scottish parliament in that dignity. His lordship was British ambassador to the court of France for many years, and subsequently secretary of state to James II. Upon the Revolution, the viscount was committed to the Tower but soon released from imprisonment. Being afterwards, however, apprehended in an attempt to escape to his old master in France, he was sent to Newgate, arraigned for high-treason, and condemned, but pardoned, through the intercession of his friends, under the sign-manual, in June, 1691. Lineage.

The MACPHERSONS of Invereshie are the chiefs of a large tribe which for ages has been distinguished under the designation of "Slioch Gillies," and which is composed of many considerable families, not only of the name of Macpherson, but of others, such as the Gillieses, Gillespies, &c. The founder of this tribe was GILLIES, or ELIAS MACPHERSON, the first of Invereshie, who lived in the reign of ALEXANDER III. He was a younger son of Ewan, or Eugene Baan (the fair-complexioned), and brother of Kenneth Macpherson, ancestors of the MACPHERSONS of Cluny Macpherson, in Inverness-shire. Ewan Baan was son of Murlach, or Murdock, and grandson of GILLICATTAN, chief of the powerful clan Chattan, during the reign of DAVID I., who, having devoted himself to the service of the church, became Abbot of Kingussie, which title he enjoyed until 1153, when upon the demise, issueless, of his elder brother, DIARMID, the chieftainship devolved upon him. A few years subsequently, he procured from the pope a dispensation to enable him to marry, and m. a dau. of the Thane of Calder. His son, EWAN BAAN, was sometimes called Macpherson, which signifies "the son of a parson" (derived from his father's clerical profession); and surnames about that time becoming hereditary, it was perpetuated in his descendants.
